West Berliners Turn Down Soviet Plans to Oust Allies

Bonn Favors Cold Rejection

Proposes 'No' to Russians

MY HERB ALTSCHULL

Bonn — West Germany wants a one-word reply to Soviet proposals to turn West Berlin into a free city. The word is "No."

A highly-placed informant said today Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government believes there is only one way to deal with the Soviet idea, and that is to turn it down cold.

The informant, who declined to allow use of his name, said the west would be operating "from the worst position possible" if it replied to the Soviet move with a counter-proposal for an east-west conference on security in Germany and central Europe.

Thus it appeared that Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano will go into next week's Paris conference with an urgent appeal to the western Big Three to refuse to deal with the Russians at this time.

Word has come from western capitals,

London in particular, that the Soviet proposals to end the four-power occupation of Berlin should be used as a springboard for a new east-west conference. The informant here said east-west talks about Berlin, Germany and central Europe should be held in the future "but not now, not under the pressure of an ultimatum."

The Russians have announced they will end their share of the 4-power occupation of Berlin within six months unless the west agrees in the interim to negotiate on the subject. At the same time the Russians put forth the free city idea for West Berlin.

There was evident concern in high places here that the western powers would find it difficult to achieve a unanimous front in future negotiations with the Russians. Bonn officials appeared worried that even the slightest appearance of a split in western thinking would arm the Russians for fresh diplomatic assaults on Berlin and the Atlantic alliance.

Betancourt in Lead at Polls In Venezuela

Close Race With Adm. Larrazabal For Presidency

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Caracas, Venezuela — Romulo Betancourt, a veteran leftist back from exile, was running out front and strong today with more than half the Larrazabal Betancourt votes counted in Venezuela's first free presidential election in a decade.

The 50-year-old leader of the anti-communist democratic action party rolled up 561,644 votes to 523,157 for challenger Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal in the 3-way contest.

Trailing far behind was Rafael Caldera of the more moderate Christian socialists. He had 244,862 votes.

Leads in Interior Larrazabal won an overwhelming majority of the votes in Caracas, where he made himself popular as leader of the junta that toppled Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. The admiral was a slight favorite prior to the voting yesterday.

But the tight organization of Betancourt's democratic action party, revived after 10

Jury Deliberates In Bombing Case

Atlanta — A jury weighing the fate of George Bright, accused of bombing the Atlanta Jewish Temple, returned to its deliberations today.

The jurors had been isolated in a wing of a hotel since midnight Saturday because Georgia law prohibits deliberations or verdicts on the sabbath.

Bright and four other Atlanta area men were indicted on charges of dynamiting the temple Oct. 12. The other defendants—Wallace H. Allen, Kenneth Chester Griffin and Robert and Richard Bowling—are scheduled for trial later.

When court reconvened after the recess, a defense attorney demanded that the prosecution announce who will be called to trial next.

Judge Durwood Pye said the state must announce which of the other cases it will call up as soon as the verdict in the Bright case is rendered.

Mayor Brandt's Party Big Winner; Reds Fail To Win Parliament Seat

BY REINHOLD ENSZ

Berlin — The people of West Berlin gave an emphatic no yesterday to communist plans to drive the western allies out of their city.

But the resounding communist defeat in the election of a new West Berlin parliament did not kill the Soviet proposal to end the 4-power occupation and turn West Berlin into a demilitarized free city. Red spokesmen said the proposal still stood.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt braced his people for shocks to come and warned of serious times ahead.

No communist candidates were elected in the election, which was widely viewed as a plebiscite on Nikita Khrushchev's proposal. The communists were the only ones who supported the Soviet proposals.

Brandt, leader of the socialists, was reelected in a smashing personal triumph. His party got 78 of the 133 seats in parliament, a solid majority. The remaining 55 went to the Christian democrats, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's party.

The communist candidates were buried under an avalanche of votes. They received a mere 1.9 per cent of the vote, as compared with 2.7 per cent in the last election in 1954. They have never won a parliamentary seat in West Berlin.

Brandt, 44, a fighting anti-communist, became the undisputed leader of West Berlin and thus a strong eventual contender for the West German chancellorship.

Silent on Coalition

He announced he will go to Bonn later this week to confer with Adenauer on strategy. He declined to say whether, with his strong parliamentary majority, he would not form an all-socialist government or whether he would continue the previous coalition with the Christian democrats. In the last parliament, which had only 127 seats, the socialists held 64 for a majority of one.

The Soviet Union is proposing that the French, British and American troops leave West Berlin within six months and turn it into a free city independent of both West Germany and communist East Germany.

Brandt, Adenauer and allied officials have denounced the plan as a Soviet trick. They say West Berlin, since it lies 110 miles inside East Germany, would soon be grabbed by the communists.

The Christian democrats buried the political hatchet immediately after the election returns came in. They announced they stood firmly behind Brandt. During the election campaign Christian democrats and socialists alike had taken a firm anti-Soviet stand.

Stresses Unity Ernst Lemmer, who would have become mayor had the Christian democrats won, told newsmen, "we are approaching serious weeks and months. We must stand together."

Moscow radio scoffed at suggestions the election was any kind of referendum on the Soviet proposals.

"It is clear to everyone that the elections have nothing to do with the Soviet proposals," the radio declared, quoting from a Pravda editorial.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl also said the election had no effect on the Soviet proposal. The outcome, he

GOP Discovers 'the Minority' Hard Role

Resist Urging to Start Fight Now Against Nelson, Democrats

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Portage — Republicans accustomed to ruling the state legislature met here during the weekend to get used to their new minority status, and discovered that it won't be easy to change roles.

About two-thirds of the 45 Republicans who will sit in the 1959 assembly—the first GOP minority there in more than 20 years—met for a preliminary review of strategy and policy, but accomplished little.

They agreed to meet again in Madison Jan. 13 to settle the central question that occupied them during three hours of spirited discussion—whether conciliation or attack is the best method of dealing with the new Democratic administration.

Disagree on Approach According to early appearances, the members who want to take a cautious course will have their way—even at the price of being called "appeasers" by some of their more bellicose colleagues.

They also couldn't agree on the best approach to the Democratic assembly captains on Republican representation on major standing committees.

The consensus was that the Democrats will be hard put to man all of their committees effectively, and that the seasoned and more experienced Republicans returning will be invited to help. The informal GOP caucus decided that the Republicans would make themselves "available."

Assemblyman David Blanche, Rock county, heading a 3-member legislative delegation from that area—one of the few populous sections remaining that is loyal to the Republican party—insisted upon an aggressive policy of attack against the Democrats.

He offered a resolution opposing any increase in the state income tax—an almost

Given 5 Years For Denying He Knew Jack Soble

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

New York — Mark Zborowski, convicted of perjury for denying that he knew confessed Soviet spy Jack Soble, was sentenced today to a maximum 5-year prison term.

Zborowski, a Russian-born anthropologist showed no emotion as Federal Judge John M. Cashin imposed sentence.

Zborowski's attorney, Frederick Nathan, had pleaded in vain for a minimum term. Nathan charged that the prosecution was guilty of "extremely prejudicial remarks."

A jury of 10 men and 2 women convicted Zborowski last Nov. 20 after three hours' deliberation.

Zborowski, 51, is a former research assistant at Harvard university. He admitted he was a Soviet agent abroad 25 years ago. He came to this country in 1941 and was naturalized six years later.

Zborowski told a grand jury he never knew Soble, now in U.S. Sixth fleet, told a news conference today aboard the federal prison. Later, Zborowski admitted he knew Soble, but said Soble was using an alias at the time.

Heavy Snow In New York

Upper Portion of State Paralyzed Under Four Feet

Albany, N. Y. — Nearly four feet of snow isolated and paralyzed a section of upstate New York today.

A 24-hour fall of 33 inches off Lake Ontario left Oswego with 44 inches on the ground.

Roads, schools, other public buildings and factories were closed. The most snow the city ever had measured before was 35 inches in 1912, the weather bureau said.

Storms off Lake Erie had dumped 41 inches since Friday night in the Mayville area southeast of the lake.

At Sault Ste. Marie in upper Michigan, eight inches of snow fell since Sunday morning, bringing the total of snow on the ground to 26 inches.

24 Inches Pellston, Mich., got four inches of new snow Sunday and now has some 24 inches on the ground.

Chicago had snow flurries throughout Sunday.

Some rain fell early today farther inland, as the cold increased, the precipitation changed to snow. Rain was

Mrs. Cyril M. DeLosh, the baby's mother, reported that a suitcase containing all the infant's clothing, food, bottles and cough medicine also was missing.

The FBI said Mrs. Zirk accepted the second baby-sitting job after starting to take care of the DeLosh baby. She told the second employer Victoria was her child and was given permission to take her along, agents said. They added that the second employer knew nothing about the baby's disappearance.

Earlier, Dr. Addison M. Duval, assistant superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital, said Mrs. Zirk was admitted to the big Washington mental institution last March as a psychotic. He said she walked from the hospital grounds last August and turned up at the home of her father in Clearville, Pa. Duval said the father was given custody of the woman.

Court Won't Pass On Case Against News Reporter

Washington — The supreme court today refused to review a New York court's decision that a newspaper reporter may be compelled to divulge the identity of a news source.

The case was that of Marie Torre, a television columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, who was sentenced to 10 days in jail for refusing to disclose the source of a story she wrote about singer Judy Garland. Miss Torre was allowed to remain free pending outcome of her appeal.

The writer had been called as a witness in a pre-trial examination of a $1,393,333 breach of contract and libel suit filed by Miss Garland against the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Miss Torre refused to obey an order by U. S. District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan in New York that she give the name of a CBS executive who assertedly furnished information for an article she wrote Jan. 10, 1957. Judge Ryan expressed sympathy with her, but adjudged the writer in contempt and imposed the jail term.

Ryan's decision was upheld by the U. S. court of appeals in New York.

Farm Bureau Calls For Big Reductions In Federal Spending

Boston — A call for big reductions in government spending—including that for aid of farmers—was made today by President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Here to preside over a 4-day annual convention of his farm organization, Shuman told a news conference that the real-estate big issue facing the nation—and the new congress convening in January—is inflation.

"Steps must be taken," he declared, "to check inflation." The convention itself was expected to adopt resolutions urging a retreat of government from farm-aid programs, which have been increasing in cost in recent years.

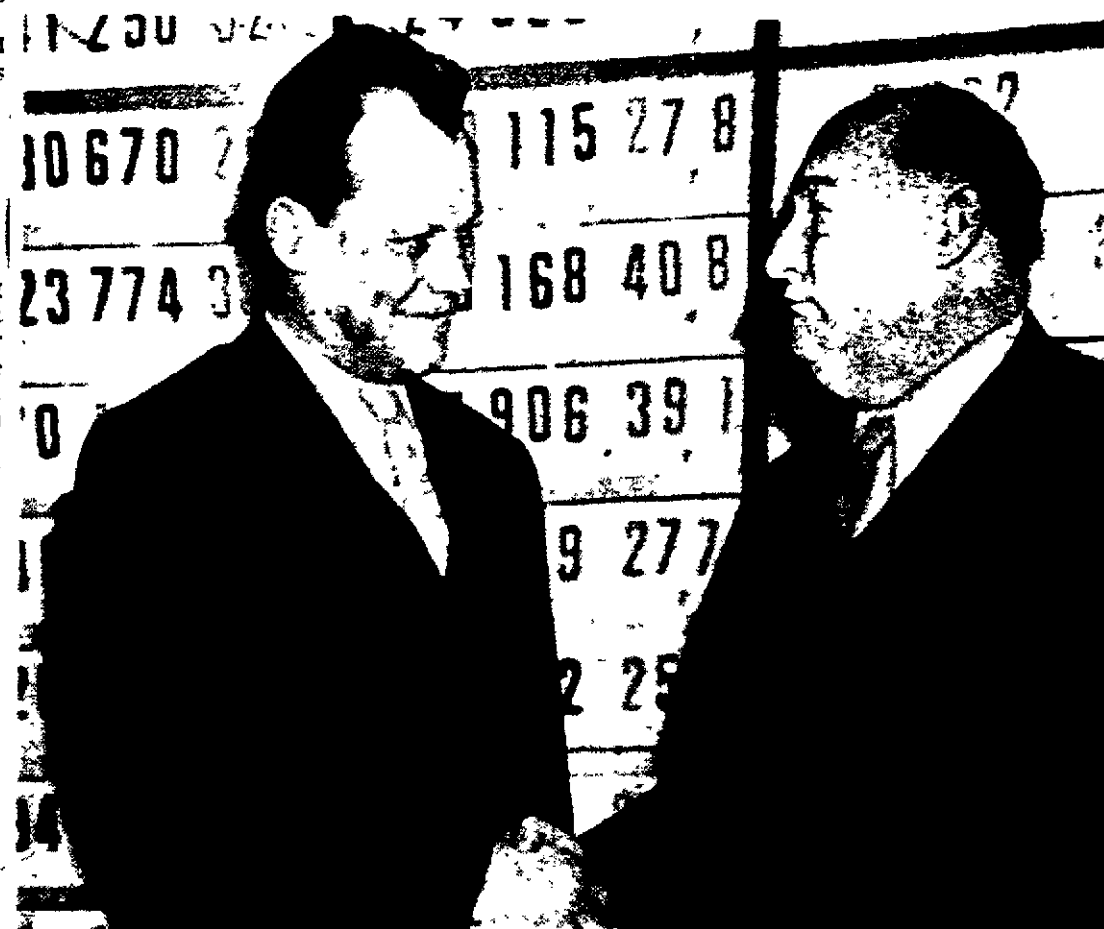

Shuman said the new congress should reduce outlays for defense, foreign aid as well as for agriculture.

The Farm Bureau president declared that federal farm programs of the last 20 years have done agriculture more harm than good.

Army Looking to Next Moon Probe

Scientists Seek to Correct the Faults Which Thwarted First Try To Hurl Instruments Into Orbit

Washington —(AP)— With a second space shot ahead, army scientists set out today to correct troubles that thwarted their first effort to hurl a tiny package of instruments into orbit around the sun.

At the same time, they rated the experiment a success in measuring the depth of man - poisoning radiation around the earth.

The space probe Pioneer III—first of two assigned to the army—met its flaming end over North Africa at 2:51 p.m. yesterday.

Fired aloft by a 4-stage rocket early Saturday, the 13-pound cone reached an announced peak altitude of 68,654 miles before falling back and burning in the terrific heat generated by atmospheric friction.

All told, it was 38 hours and 6 minutes in flight.

Revised Figures
The army's Pioneer III didn't get as far into space as did the air force's best effort on Oct. 11. Revised figures showed the air force's Pioneer I reached 71,300 miles. Two other air force moon rockets failed soon after takeoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla., which also was the site of the army launching.

The air force now has used up all three space probes allotted to it for the present at least. It sought to send a slightly heavier satellite than the army's into orbit around the moon, which is some 220,000 miles from the earth.

The army's intent with Pioneer III was to pass the moon and perhaps to into orbit around the sun, which is some 93 million miles away.

The army wasn't saying publicly just when it would try again. But Maj. Gen. John P. Medaris, chief of the army missile command, said yesterday another shot is at least a month off. "See me after Christmas," Medaris told interviewers on a television program.

Low Angle
Failure of the air force's Pioneer I to reach the vicinity of the moon was attributed in part to a higher-than-planned trajectory. Another reason cited was insufficient rocket thrust.

In the case of the army's Pioneer III, scientists said it was launched at too low an angle. And they said its first stage fuel shut off three seconds too soon, cutting its speed below the 24,900 miles an hour needed to break away from the earth's main gravitational pull.

Pioneer III's maximum speed was clocked at 23,900 mph during takeoff. It slowed as it rose, then gathered speed again on falling.

Medaris said the rocket design will be analyzed and its control system slightly altered.

After Pioneer I made its trail-blazing flight, air force scientists said they were pleased with information radioed back on radiation in space.

The army's space specialists also claimed valuable knowledge on radiation had been gained from Pioneer III's journey.

The degree and depth of radiation in space is important to scientists looking ahead to the time when man may travel toward the moon and the planets.

Medaris said the firing of Pioneer III was completely successful in what he called its primary goal—to record the extent of the radiation band around the earth.

Truman Won't Predict Who'll Get Nomination

Says He Will Adopt 'Hands-Off' Policy In Present Scramble

Washington —(AP)— Former president Harry S. Truman said today the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination contest is so wide open at this time he hasn't any idea who the winner will be.

Truman, who backed Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the 1956 nomination which went to Adlai E. Stevenson, said he is keeping hands off in the scramble at this point.

"We have got a lot of good young men in the party who would make fine candidates, and I don't want to do anything to hurt the chances of any of them," Truman said.

"Everybody will know in plenty of time who I am for," he added.

Not Decisive
While Truman's support is not likely to be decisive, the former president's backing might provide the impetus needed for one of several individual aspirants to forge ahead in what now appears likely to be a closely bunched field of contenders in 1960.

The prospect that several may arrive at the July 1960 convention with about equal strength revived speculation at weekend Democratic meetings here of the possibility of a third nomination for Stevenson.

Stevenson himself merely repeated his recent statement that he won't be the nominee. And Jacob M. Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, said he thinks the party's 1952 and 1956 standard-bearer would be a "very reluctant dragon" so far as a third race is concerned.

Deadlock Choice
Nevertheless, Arvey said he is not ruling out the possibility the convention might turn to Stevenson if several rounds of balloting should indicate a deadlock.

Similarly, Gov.-elect David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania said that while he doesn't think Stevenson wants to run, he can see where the balloting stalemate might bring the former Illinois governor to the front again as a compromise candidate.

However, Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, himself a candidate for the 1960 nomination,

On Their First Date, Dorothy Manewal, 16, and Richard Gillett, 22, liked each other. Then they found out they really had something in common—they were brother and sister parted 10 years ago. They were adopted into separate homes after their mother died in 1948 and hadn't seen each other since.

Probe Chain of Death Involving 3 Truckers

Weary Drivers Pause at Bunkhouse to Sleep, Found Dead; Cause Unknown

Lancaster, Mo. —(AP)— Three truck drivers, weary from the long drive from central Arkansas to this north Missouri village, went to sleep in a truck stop bunkhouse. All three of them died there.

Why? At this stage, no one knows. Coroner Bryce Norman said the first victim apparently died of a heart attack. Autopsies on the bodies of the other two were inconclusive. Tissue samples will be tested today at the Missouri highway patrol headquarters in Jefferson City. Results of the tests, however, won't be available for several days.

Chain of Death
The chain of death began Friday, when 24-year-old Louis Lee Warden of Little Rock pulled into Lancaster with a truckload of farm tractors from Malvern, a town of 8,000 in central Arkansas. It was 1 a.m. and he had covered more than 600 miles.

Warden said he was ill and went to bed in the bunkhouse which Ed Judd maintains at his service station-restaurant on U.S. Highway 63. Late that night, said he doesn't believe the convention will nominate a man who has lost two elections.

"Stevenson can't win," Chandler said. "Why, he would lose Kentucky by 125,000 votes."

afternoon, Warden was found dead.

Warden suffered from a heart ailment. His death was attributed to the disease and his body was sent back to Little Rock. Now Norman says he may ask Arkansas authorities to perform an autopsy.

Warden's employer, D. W. Hoskins of Malvern, sent two drivers north with a load of lumber. They were John Parker, 26, of Little Rock, and William Briner, 22, of Malvern. One of them was to take the lumber further north from Lancaster, which is near the Iowa border. The other was to drive Warden's truck back to Malvern.

Parker and Briner arrived Saturday afternoon. They sat around the bunkhouse and chatted with some of Judd's employees until that night. They went to bed about 1 a.m. yesterday. At 7 a.m., both men were found dead.

Coroner Norman said the 18 by 24 foot bunkhouse was heated by a stove which burns bottled gas. He has asked for a state inspection to determine if the heater is releasing lethal fumes.

Judd built his truck stop about five years ago, and added the frame bunkhouse a year later as a service for sleepy truck drivers.

Humphrey Says West Can Stay in Berlin With United Effort

New York —(AP)— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today he believes the western powers will not be ousted from Berlin if a "united policy is maintained and we don't lose our tempers."

He made the comment upon arrival at Idlewild airport from a tour of Europe during which he had an 8-hour interview with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Humphrey declared the foreign ministers of the United States, Great Britain, France and West Germany should meet "as soon as possible to arrive at a completely unified and coordinated policy on Berlin."

"We cannot afford to leave a single loose thread," There should be, he added, "a little less vitriolic thought and a little more of unity of position."

Strike Against Newspapers in New York Ends

Labor Dispute in Washington Also Brought to Close

New York —(AP)— A delivery men's strike against nine New York City newspapers was settled today less than eight hours after it began.

Federal Mediator Herbert L. Haber said both sides made concessions in reaching agreement.

He said terms for a 2-year contract were agreed upon, subject to approval by the union's 2,000 members.

The union's negotiating committee said it was recommending approval of the contract, which provides wage increases of $4 a week the first year and $3 a week the second year.

Basic Wage
The deliverers' basic wage had previously been $103.82 for a 40-hour week for day drivers.

Barney G. Cameron, president of the Publishers Association of New York City, announced the end of the strike. The deliverers had struck at midnight when their contract expired.

Pickets placed around the New York dailies by the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union were called off.

The dailies had planned to publish as usual and sell across the counters at their buildings.

The four morning dailies—the Times, the Herald Tribune, Daily News and Mirror—had prepared for the strike by moving up deadlines of early editions.

Afternoon Papers
The five afternoon newspapers are the World-Telegram and Sun, the Post, the Journal American, the Long Island Daily Press and the Long Island Star Journal.

In Washington, meanwhile, the Evening Star prepared an expanded Monday edition to day after settlement of a 3-day strike of editorial and commercial employees.

Settlement was reached Sunday with a compromise calling for higher wages and a slightly reduced work week.

Israel, UAR Hurl Charges

Security Council Prepares to Take Up Earlier Clash

United Nations —(AP)— Israel and the United Arab Republic exchanged new charges of border attack today as the U.N. security council prepared to take up an earlier clash. Shooting along the border between Israel and the Syrian province of the U.A.R. was reported both Saturday and Sunday nights.

The Israelis said the Syrians fired for 90 minutes each night and claimed the fire was not returned.

U.A.R. spokesmen charged that on Saturday night two Israeli detachments crossed the Jordan river and tried to surprise a Syrian frontier post. They said a 45-minute exchange of fire ensued.

Similar Foray
The Syrians said another Israeli detail made a similar foray 80 minutes later and also was driven back.

The security council was to meet on an Israeli complaint accusing Syria of a "grave act of aggression" Wednesday in the Lake Huleh area north of the Sea of Galilee. The Israelis charged that Syrian forces fired on five Israeli shepherds and killed one, then bombarded seven villages along the frontier for more

Democratic Council's Program May Get Only A Nod From Congress

Policy-Shaping Group Calls for Action on Wide Range of Issues

Washington —(AP)— The Democratic advisory council's broad legislative program appeared likely today to get only passing attention from a congress which may be more interested in national security than social security.

In its first meeting since last month's elections bolstered Democratic majorities in both house and senate, the policy-shaping council Sunday drafted a 24-point program of goals for the 86th congress.

Wide Range
The pronouncement, the most comprehensive and far reaching ever issued by the 24-member council, called for action on a wide range of issues from expansion of social security to strengthening of civil rights.

It made no specific recommendations, however, on such things as outer space development which senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas stressed last month — also in general terms — in a 12-point legislative program for the new congress. Johnson omitted civil rights from his program.

Liberal Views
In addition to doubling the proposals laid down by Johnson, the council's action put a fresh accent on the liberal views expressed by many of the new Democratic senate and house members elected last month.

However, getting the program adopted by congress will be a different matter.

Despite the contention of National Chairman Paul M. Butler that the council's program reflects the direction in which the party is pointing in 1960, the proposals do not appear likely to command effective sponsorship in congress.

The general opinion among politicians is that Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas will, in practical effect, shape the final form of the legislative program that emerges from next year's session.

In the past, Johnson and Rayburn have not paid much attention to the council's recommendations. There is no current reason to believe their attitude will change materially.

In announcing its program yesterday, the council said: "Republican reaction, lethargy, and indecision of the past six years have allowed this nation to fall woefully behind in meeting the demands of the times."

In addition to expansion of social security, the council urged "bold and comprehensive action" on such things as fighting inflation and the high cost of living, increasing the national minimum wage, a new housing program and readjustments of what it called inequities and loopholes in the tax laws.

Von Braun Predicts: Ballistic Rocket May be Used To Transport People, Cargo
Washington —(AP)— Dr. Werner von Braun, the army's top missile scientist, says he regards the ballistic rocket "as a very suitable form of transportation" for people and cargo.
But he says a lot of people—including army officials—still must be convinced of this. The German-born missileman discussed his ideas Sunday in a radio-television interview.
"We could use missiles that we have right now and fire down with them a couple of, fore people are willing to accept the ballistic missile as a means of transportation."

Befancourt in Lead at Polls In Venezuela

years underground, apparently was keeping Befancourt ahead in the interior of the country.

"Befancourt is president," said his campaign manager, Luis Lander, but Larrazabal said, "We are still in the running."

Ignacio Luis Arcaya, leader of the democratic republican union backing Larrazabal, expressed confidence his sweep of the capital along with the communist vote would offset Befancourt's lead in the interior.

Communist Gains

While democratic action leaders were confident of Befancourt's ultimate victory, they showed concern at the the fight for seats in congress.

One expressed fear the communists would win seven or more seats that democratic communist party's inroads in action had hoped to get in the chamber of deputies.

Figures on the communist vote were not available because they were lumped with others for Larrazabal in many returns, but they were estimated at considerably less than 10 per cent of the nationwide total. As in the past their strength was mainly in Caracas.

Party leaders tensely awaited additional returns all night as troops guarded the headquarters of the electoral council. The official count of ballots proceeded slowly.

The election was calm and orderly with no reports of violence.

Befancourt's party came to power in the 1945 revolt which overthrew Gen. Isaias Medina Angarita. The party elected writer Romulo Gallegos president in 1948, but he was turned out by Perez Jimenez in a military coup later in the year. The party was outlawed and Befancourt went into exile.

Political Leader in Pakistan Imprisoned

Karachi, Pakistan—(U)—The first political leader convicted since Pakistan's bloodless October revolution was sentenced to 14 years in prison today. Abdul Samad Khan, from Baluchistan province, was charged with anti-state activities. Eight others are in prison awaiting trial.

Artless French, Manager of the Appleton Red Owl store, and his wife, rear, go through customs at the Duesseldorf, Germany, airport Thursday after arriving from the U. S. en route to Mars—Germany, that is. The Frenchs won the trip for meeting a company's offer of a trip to Mars as outlined in a series of outdoor advertising signs. For a more realistic touch, French wears a "Martian cloak."

said, would be decided by negotiations between Russia, the western allies and the two Germanys.

ADN, the East German news agency, blamed the communist defeat on what it called a reign of terror in West Berlin. It charged the West Berliners weren't given the facts about the Soviet plan.

The socialists also took a majority of the popular vote, increasing their showing from 44.6 per cent in 1954 to 52.1. The Christian democrats also gained, from 30.4 to 37.3 per cent.

The small parties were the losers, reflecting West Germany's trend toward a 2-party system. In the old city parliament, they had 20 seats. This time, by each failing to get a minimum 5 per cent of the total vote, not one of the minor factions won a seat.

The turnout was tremendous. Out of a total population of about 2,200,000, more than 1,600,000 voted.

The socialists rolled up a total of 849,883 votes and the deputies that his government's chief aim is to obtain western recognition of East Germany as a sovereign state.

Grotewohl repeated the communist demands that the allies withdraw from West Berlin and that it be turned into a free city. He said his government is prepared to negotiate with the western allies on all questions related to their troops in West Berlin. This was taken as a clear indication that his regime would negotiate further if the allies reject the free city proposal. The West, however, refuses to negotiate with the East German regime, contending it is not representative of the East German people and is a Soviet puppet.

county coroner, said Hill died of a basal skull fracture.

Undersheriff Ben Pipkorn said Nicholas told him bright lights from an oncoming car blinded him and "it seemed as if the man fell out of the sky—it all happened so fast."

Hill was found about 39 feet from the point of contact. He had worked in the New London area for some time and had started working on the Arthur Crain farm near Sugar Bush last week.

Gray told Winnebago county authorities he was going west on the River road when he saw the boy getting mail from a mail box. He was about 100 feet away when the boy ran into the road without looking, he said.

The boy was taken to Mercy hospital, Oshkosh, in lieved to be the first concerning a mayor's voting right in an action of this sort.

Seven of the New London aldermen voted against adoption of the $497,954 school budget. Three aldermen and the seven town chairmen voted for adoption. It was the first time a majority of the city council voted against a school budget. New London, represents 68,328 per cent of the district valuation.

Mayor Krueger's tie-breaking vote was cast on the advice of City Atty. Sigurd Kros-lue, who opined the mayor was a member of the council and entitled to a vote.

When the budget was adopted on Krueger's vote, the enabling resolution to spread the $315,841 on the district tax rolls was adopted unanimously. The bureau said the snowfall is expected to range from the Miller ambulance after: Monday, December 8, 1958 Appleton Post-Crescent A9

state police administered first aid at the scene. Mrs. Gray was taken to the hospital in the state of shock.

The Kircher Funeral home, New London, is making arrangements for Hill's funeral. He is survived by a brother, Gilbert, Green Bay, and a sister, Mrs. Jake Smith, Tigerton.

State Deaths

The other deaths in the state included:

Peter Eilbes, 18, Wauwatosa, died Sunday on Washington county Highway K near Hartford when his car skidded, crashed into a culvert and overturned.

Rodney Anderson, 23, Strum, was killed Sunday when his car went out of control on Trempealeau County Highway D three miles north of Strum, left the highway and overturned.

Dr. G. D. Sheridan, Fountain City dentist who had offices in Winona, Minn., was killed late Saturday in a collision of his car and a truck on Highway 25 near Ellsworth.

Previously reported was the death of David Guckenberger, 44, of Oak Creek, a Milwaukee suburb.

certainly under the Democratic regime. It also denounced the Democratic proposals for state debt, opposed the idea of a 1-year state budget, and pledged the Republicans to maintenance at existing levels of the state services that have been patterned by Republican legislatures during 20 preceding years.

But, Blanchard's ideas were deferred, by a vote of 17 to 10.

"We've got to start fighting now," said Blanchard. "We've got to start making a noise." Blanchard also proposed Republicans demand that Governor Nelson launch his much talked about tax study now, to provide the findings for the legislature as soon as possible. "Why doesn't he get going?" he asked.

But most of the Republicans evidently felt that an attack upon the administration even before it is sworn into office would be impolitic.

Thomson Poor Loser

"Gov. Thomson looked like a poor loser when he criticized Nelson after the election," ventured Assemblyman McEssy, Fond du Lac.

He was echoed by Assemblyman Arnold Cane, Menasha.

"Thomson has ruined it for himself up there in our Republican area," he said. Cane said Republicans ought to look over Nelson's program and give it a fair analysis. Later, he flared angrily when Assemblyman Jerris Leonard, Milwaukee, ridiculed what he called "appeasers".

"I don't believe the Republicans are always right and the Democrats always wrong," said Cane. Another younger member, William H. Aase, Marinette,

Bomb Scare At School Proves Hoax

Waukesha — An anonymous caller told police Saturday night that a bomb had been placed in Waukesha High School. As a result:

About 2,000 persons were evacuated in 4 degree weather.

The Waukesha-Nicolet High school basketball game was canceled.

And the annual Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce awards program had to be transferred to a hotel. "There is a bomb in Waukesha High school," the male caller told police desk officer Robert Simms and hung up. All available officers were sent to the school and all off-duty members of the department were called in to aid in the search.

Police Chief James Hannon stood at a microphone and loudspeaker in the gymnasium.

"This is your police chief," he said. "Will everyone please leave the building. Don't panic. I repeat, do not panic. Just leave the building and get as far away as possible."

Two minutes remained to be played in the first half of the basketball game with Waukesha leading 36-22. The Jaycees were meeting in another part of the building. A search of the building failed to turn up a bomb.

Faith in Father Leads Lad to Operating Table

Rochester, Minn. — Great confidence in his dad and a desire to be as strong as other kids led 5-year-old Stephen Smith to the operating room where surgeons mended his defective heart.

Stephen still believes it was his father, a 31-year-old London boilermaker, who performed the surgery Friday. Actually it was Mayo clinic surgeons who did the operation. Stephen's only hope of living beyond childhood. "Stephen knew how much the operation meant to him," Frederick Smith explained. "We have told him he can run and play like the other boys on the street if he gets well. I didn't try to mislead him but he has so much confidence in me that he thought I would do the operation."

At the head surgeon's suggestion, Smith went along when Stephen was wheeled into the operating room. Doctors let the boy believe his father would remain there. In the eyes of the frightened child, his dad was the man who would see him through this greatest trial.

"I don't want to tell him yet about the wonderful surgeons here who performed the operation," said Smith. "He believes I did it. I think it comforts him to feel that."

Doctors repaired a hole in the wall separating chambers of the lad's heart. The surgery appeared to be successful, but it will be a few days before physicians can tell whether Stephen will recover.

A 'First' for the Fox Valley

A Survival conference for Fox Valley industry will be held in Appleton Tuesday, sponsored jointly by five chambers of commerce — Oshkosh, Neenah-Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna and Green Bay. It is expected to draw regional and national attention for two reasons: it is the first time industry of such a large area has come together to consider the problems of survival in this nuclear age, and it is the first time several chambers of commerce have co-operated to sponsor such an event.

It is a tribute, we think, to the alertness and progressiveness of the Fox valley's industrial leaders that they are taking up the challenge of survival in this dangerous era in which we live. All too many business, labor and professional leaders have ignored this subject, apparently feeling that civil defense is the sole responsibility of government. Yet if there is one fact that stands out in the complex and confused civil defense picture, it is that government cannot do the job alone. For one thing, in any war it will be too busy fending off the enemy to provide shelter and sustenance for the civilian population.

Industry provides the smews of modern war, to say nothing of the basic needs of living in modern society in either war or peace. If our industry were destroyed or even badly hurt, our ability to bounce back from an enemy attack would be questionable. We do not understand why conferences of this kind have not been held throughout the country; perhaps the initiative and imagination shown here in the Fox valley will inspire industrial and civic leaders elsewhere to follow suit.

Another notable aspect of this event is the fact that it is the first time the valley's chambers have gotten together on a project for the good of the whole region. More and more in our modern economy and society we are dependent on our neighbors; what happens in Green Bay or Oshkosh is important to the people of the Fox Cities, and vice versa. Here in the Fox Cities we have experienced a growing awareness of this interdependence; communities that 20 years ago paid little attention to one another now consult with each other and cooperate among themselves in a number of fields. But the pace of modern life dictates, we think, that this kind of consultation and cooperation must be extended to a larger area; the communities of the entire valley have a common interest, and should make common cause, on a number of subjects. We see no reason why the valley's chambers and other civic bodies should not work together in such areas as industrial development, highway planning, river development for both commercial and recreational uses, state and national legislation affecting the valley, and area promotion. Tuesday's industrial survival conference could be a "first" in more ways than one.

Our Problems at Berlin

Whenever the Russians stir up a new batch of trouble for us in the vicinity of Berlin, Americans begin to wonder why our military and political leaders ever agreed to the occupation of West Berlin under the present unsatisfactory conditions. Our forces in Berlin are separated from their supply bases by 110 miles of Russian occupied territory. We have no air, land or water routes from our main forces in West Berlin across the 110 miles excepting those controlled by the Russians. The fact is that the geographical arrangement of the occupied zones in Germany was proposed by the British and accepted by the Americans without any serious question. Thus it may be said that the problems of the occupying countries are of their own making.

The supreme powers in the world at the close of World War II were the United States, Great Britain and Russia. Thus the allied outpost in Berlin was within the territory of an ally and not of a cold war enemy as it appears to be today. The U. S. News and World Report has been looking about for an explanation of the strange situation in Berlin. The picture became quite clear to most Americans back in 1948-49 when the Americans broke a Russian land blockade by using the famous airlift. But even then in a sense there has been a continuing argument over responsibility for the Berlin problem.

During the political campaign in 1952 President Truman tried to lay the blame at General Eisenhower's door, but the U. S. News investigation does not support this charge. There are indications that the great folly came about because the western allies regarded the Russians as an ally and credited Russia with dealing in good faith. Those closest to blame perhaps are John G. Wymant, American ambassador to London at that time, and General Clay who later had to face the problem of the first Berlin blockade.

Wymant had a part in setting up the zones of occupation and the report says had a particular responsibility on the matter of a corridor. His aides say he saw clearly the need for an access route but there is no evidence that he did anything about it. He evidently believed that the right to be in Berlin carried with it the right of access. To be more specific, he seemed to think, it would merely make the Russians suspicious. The Report adds that Wymant "appeared to others to be so devoted to the idea of making the Russians trust the United States that one fellow diplomat described him as being happiest Korea was under the auspices of the Security Council and consisted almost entirely of men from the United States and its NATO allies. It would not even have come into being if the Soviet representatives had not unthinkingly walked out of the meeting and lost their chance for a veto.

The makeup of any permanent force is difficult to envision. Could the same men sent to calm troubled waters around Iceland be used to put down uprisings in Lebanon? Exactly what could such a force do in a situation like that of Hungary where it would be met by Russian tanks? The idea lets who maintain that mere membership in a UN army would traverse national borders is not realistic.

Nevertheless we think efforts to create such a force should continue. It should be made public in large type that a list of the newly-released colonial nations and some of those allegedly battling for "democracy" are as strongly opposed to a permanent UNEF as is the Soviet Union. It may be that a lot of people in the world recognize no rights except their own.

What Others are Saying

Washington Asked Nation Cherish Public Credit; Advice Ignored

From The Daily Oklahoman

In 1932 Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected president on an economy platform.

He had accused Herbert Hoover who was then president of being extravagant with the taxpayer's money. He had proposed "that government of all kinds, big and little, be made solvent and that the example be made by the president of the United States and his cabinet."

The big government to which he referred was naturally the federal government. The little governments were those of the states, the counties, the cities and the school districts amounting to an estimated present total of 116,000 separate taxing and spending units.

When Roosevelt was inaugurated in March, 1933, the Hoover administration was spending $4 billions a year for all purposes. That $4 billions would scarcely pay half the present annual interest charge on the national debt. The government's spending budgets are now in excess of $70 billions and are rapidly approaching an anticipated $80 billions annually. The national debt has risen from $22 billions to more than $280 billions.

Taxing, spending and debt accumulation on the part of the little government follow the federal example. The senate finance committee reported that gross federal, state and local tax collections in 1956 were $99.8 billions out of a total national income of $334 billions. In brief government was consuming 29 cents out of every dollar earned by the American people in 1956.

Sound Advice
On the subject of governmental spending the American people were once bedeviled some sound advice from an eminent source. It went as follows:

"As a very important source of strength and security cherish public credit. One method of preserving it is to use it as sparingly as possible; avoiding occasions of expense by cultivating peace, but remembering also that timely disbursements to prepare for danger frequently prevent much greater disbursements to repel it; avoiding likewise the accumulation of debt, not only by shunning occasions of expense but by vigorous exertions in time of peace

Rich Inheritance For Young Boys

From The Independent, Anderson, S. C.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter to his successor that the son of Capt. Colin P. Kelly, Jr., killed in the crash of his B-17 Flying Fortress while bombing a Japanese battleship a few days after Pearl Harbor, be appointed to West Point.

President Eisenhower is awaiting young Kelly's decision as to whether it will be West Point or the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

Meantime, he is asking the president of 14 years hence to appoint to Colorado Springs the son of Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe, Jr., who died testing America's fastest jet planes, designed for space travel.

These boys have a rich inheritance.

The nation does well to honor their fathers.

to discharge the debts which unavoidable wars may have occasioned, not ungenerously throwing upon posterity the burden which we ourselves ought to bear."

This excellent advice occurs in Washington's farewell address which is now honored mostly in the breach. Far from "shunning occasions of expense" congress is now actively seeking new ones out. Far from exerting vigorously "in time of peace to discharge the debts which unavoidable wars may have occasioned" the government is now spending about as much in peace as it once did only in war.

Hope for Better Results in CD

From The Ogden, Utah, Standard-Examiner

The United States government has issued over President Eisenhower's signature its first national plan for civil defense mobilization. It is hoped that the new program will produce a greater response among the people than previous civil defense programs have done.

Common prudence, as the president declares, requires that every citizen should learn how to protect himself in an emergency that may

Cavalcade Welcomes Bishop

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Dec. 13, 1879.

A week ago the Rt. Rev. F. X. Krauthauer, Bishop of Green Bay, visited Freedom for the second time. Notwithstanding the coldness of the day, over 150 young men of St. Nicholas congregation turned out on horseback to welcome him.

The temperance society was out in full force, wearing their beautiful regalia. The horsemen with regalia, banners and miniature waving flags made a very impressive sight.

Mr. Michael Roche acted as Marshal and succeeded very well in keeping the boys in line. This cavalcade along with several wagons loaded with people met the Bishop; accompanied by clergyman of adjoining parishes, about three miles south of the village, on the Little Chute road.

Governor Gets Test At Budget Hearings

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — More than is generally understood, the heart of the governor's job is his handling of the state budget. Governor Nelson will show more about his ability as the chief officer of the state in the preparation of his biennial budget bill, upon which he is now at work, than in anything else he will do during the next two years.

Wyngaard

Nelson's problem today is exceptional in that the excess of appropriation requests over prospective revenues is greater than usual. He is faced with a painful dilemma; to stand for heavily increased taxation, or brutal cut-backs in spending proposals the department heads to a man are defending as essential and in some cases as below minimum requirements.

But all governors have faced the problem to some degree. All of them must use the paring knife, and all of them have found it hard to do. The choices presented are difficult ones. Each of the men appearing to ask for money makes the best case he can. Each of the services contains some appeal, as shown by the fact that some earlier governor and some earlier legislature put them on the statute books.

THE CHOICE

But the governor knows that all of them cannot be accommodated. Something must be deleted. But what?

Is the employment of an additional corps of health officers to work on heart disease and cancer and other scourges to be compared with the value of a bureau of criminal identification which would amass a central file of violators' fingerprints in Madison, or what of the relative values of an additional income tax auditor against an extra fund to buy books for the free library commission to loan to people who live in areas without local library service?

The aeronautics department wants to build an airport in a small town, and the industrial commission wants some more factory inspectors. How to choose between them?

The insurance department wants to hire a lawyer to help in handling the increasing volume of legal matters in that big department that yields almost $10,000,000 a year. How does that stack up with the request of the State Historical society, anxiously backed up as it is by some of the most prestigious intellectual and civic names in the state? Is an appropriation of aids to counties for child guidance centers more or less worthy than the demand of the national guard for some additional officers in its headquarters?

These are the questions in which the governor shows not only his tastes, but his judgment. Here the essential record is made.

U. S. Has First Stamp Dedicated To Conservation

From The Sunday Times Signal, Zanesville, Ohio

For the first time in the nation's history a postage stamp has been dedicated to forest conservation, a major objective in the vast Muskingum watershed.

Primarily, the new stamp commemorates the 100th anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who, when president, established the national forest system.

The stamp likewise salutes the men, women and private and public agencies playing a part in the progress made in the protection and wide use of the nation's resources.

The stamp depicts a colorful forest scene. Framing the foreground are two pine trees, a low-cut stump, healthy little trees, wildlife on a lake shore bordered with hardwoods, and a forested watershed in the background.

The stamp highlights the major aspects of forest conservation, including new growth of young trees, the harvesting of mature, timber under capable management, and the benefits to be derived in protecting watersheds.

The four-centers in the forest conservation series are important. Next time you go to the post office ask for a supply. Put them on your mail and help spread the gospel of conservation practices.

This will pay off in years to come.

Suggest 4 Types Of School Diplomas

From The Wisconsin School Board News

Four types of diplomas may be issued in Pocatello, Idaho, in connection with a new four-track curriculum program for junior and senior high school students. Superintendent of Schools Gerald Wallace has sought permission from the state board of education to make this differentiation in diplomas.

The tracks in the new system are:

1. Standard, which offers courses required by the state board of education for high school graduation.

2. Technical, which offers, in addition to minimum requirements, programs for vocational, commercial, or technical education.

3. Academic, which meets rigid requirements for college entrance.

4. Scholastic, which provides a program for gifted students in math, science, literature, history, art, electronics, and other fields.

Officers Fight Over Dog Bite

Coronado, Calif. — Retired Marine Corps Maj. Gen. Walter G. Farrell testified he was bitten by a Chinese poodle. He had sued retired navy Capt. Theodore J. # GOP Pros Want to Tell Off Business

Alcorn Tells NAM Voters Don't Want Right-to-Work Laws

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — The professional leadership of the Republican party, largely controlled by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, has firmly adopted a policy of unexampled audacity in "telling off" business.

It is as extraordinary as though the Democrats had set out to publicly reprimand labor. Indeed, this is news of a kind that is said to result when man bites dog.

That the Republicans have undertaken this course of danger — and of Spartan courage — is the best possible index of their fears for the future. The more they examine the whys and wherefores of the Democratic congressional election victories of last month the worse things look to them unless businessmen can be made to "see reason" before the presidential test of 1960.

The considered view of the GOP professionals is this: The insistence by business of putting the so-called right-to-work issue into the recent campaign must not be repeated unless business is ready to see the country go Democratic in 1960 — and this for a mere starter. They point out that it took the GOP years to live down what was, rightly or wrongly, the anti-labor, anti-"little man" face put upon it after the adoption of the Taft-Hartley labor act by a Republican congress.

They suggest that one more round of right-to-work, under Republican sponsorship and at the demand of management, might so end up: Give the Republicans the dubious satisfaction of being very acceptable to management—but quite unacceptable to the voters, for another six to eight years.

Accordingly, what might be called a command decision of calculated risk has been taken by the Republican organization leadership. This is to tell business leaders, in the plainest possible way and hazing all their displeasure, that only two rational courses are really open now:

Drop Right-to-Work

1. To forget about right-to-work, however heady its attractions in the abstract sense.
2. Or that, if business is going to insist again upon right-to-work it must be prepared to put into the 1960 presidential campaign precisely the kind of straining, unprecedented push—in terms of exertions and in terms of money—that was put into the fight to reelect Sen. Robert A. Taft in 1950.

In the Taft struggle in Ohio business generally treated the maintenance of the senator's seat as though the presidency itself were at stake. Not since, in any election anywhere, has business as a community made so massive and so dedicated a political effort relative to the size of the terrain of battle.

Told Off NAM

Few Republican professionals believe that business will really take alternative No. 2. It was in this estimate of the harsh political reality that Meade Alcorn, the GOP national chairman, recently went to New York to give the bad news straight to the National Association of Manufacturers. Whatever anybody wanted to say about the inherent merit of right-to-work, Alcorn observed to these business bigwigs, this was the bald, bare meaning of the tale:

"A majority of the voters said emphatically that they don't want right-to-work, and as a consequence the political careers of some of the nation's ablest public servants (Republicans, of course) were shattered."
This was only the beginning of a new GOP leadership effort to change business's view of what is good for business, the Republican party, and the country. And it was comparable to some unimaginable scene which might find Paul Butler, the Democratic chairman, announcing to a convention of the CIO-AFL that the Democrats had now heard altogether too much about things like union security.

For the NAM has been the last, irreducible redoubt and trench of the total free enter-

Montgomery, Ala. — An American hero of Pearl Harbor and a Japanese bomber pilot in the raid relived their parts yesterday on that fateful Dec. 7.

Municipal Workers Claim Strike Right

Policy Statement Terms Prohibition Of Walkouts 'Unfair and Impractical'

Madison — A statement of policy proclaiming that any public worker should be given the right to strike was adopted Sunday by Wisconsin members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union.

Labor leaders interpreted the move as an indirect vote of confidence for city of Milwaukee employees who are threatening to strike in the event the city does not agree to demands for a salary increase, union recognition and other benefits.

"Impractical" Denial
The legislative meeting here did not include representation from members of the Milwaukee council. However, delegates from Milwaukee were present as observers and John Zinos, director of the Milwaukee council, outlined the situation in Milwaukee.

The statement of policy, adopted without dissent, said that "it is unfair and impractical" for city and county employees to be denied the right to strike.

"It is not fair for government to prohibit city and county employees from striking," the statement said, "when it specifically guarantees the right to strike to employees of privately owned public utilities and other employment that involves special services."

Lack Bargaining Setup
"It is impractical to prohibit strikes by public employees because such prohibition does not accomplish its objective."

"Instead of demanding restrictive action against public employees, a more positive and constructive approach should be taken. The main source of difficulty between local government and its employees is lack of effective bargaining procedures."

The council also decided to seek legislation in the 1959 Wisconsin session that would give state, city and county employees the expressed right to join labor unions.

CHILDREN OF THE BIBLE by Patrick and Garrison

DANIEL

"And the king spake unto Ashpenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel ... children in whom there was no blemish ..."

—Daniel 1:3, 4

Among the many captives Nebuchadnezzar carried back to Babylon after he conquered Jerusalem was a lad named Daniel.

The Bible does not tell us his exact birthplace, but it says he was of noble birth.

Because he was "well-favored, and skillful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge," he was selected by the king's chief eunuch to become one of the pages in Nebuchadnezzar's court.

Daniel was a boy who was not afraid to say "no."

When the tutor who had been placed in charge of him offered him Babylonian food and wine, "Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself."

To have accepted the food would have been to show great irreverence to God. For the Chaldean food was always offered first to their idols, before it was brought to the table.

The eunuch, Melzar, told Daniel he feared that the king would behead him if he saw the Hebrew boys grow thin and learned that they had not been fed the food ordered by him.

Daniel proposed that he allow some of the boys to eat Hebrew food for ten days. At the end of that time, if they were not as healthy looking as the others, "as thou seest, deal with thy servants."

Melzar consented and Daniel ate pulse—the pressed seeds and grain he had eaten at home. At the end of ten days, the faces of the boys who ate this food "appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat."

This act of courage, and many that followed it, helped Daniel and his three friends—Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah—to face wild beasts, and the fiery furnace without flinching.

"God gave them knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom," the Bible says. "And Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams."

It was this strange gift—the ability to interpret dreams—that later won for Daniel a place of honor and influence in the Babylonian court.

For it was he who interpreted the dreams of Nebuchadnezzar, and translated the flaming words that appeared mysteriously on the walls of the king's banquet hall.

Armed Man Gets $700 at Bay Bus Depot

Police Say Robber Put Gun on Clerk, Demanded Money

Green Bay—An armed man made a clean get-away after robbing a ticket clerk or more than $700 in an empty bus depot here Saturday night.

The hold-up took place at 6:51 p. m. Saturday at the Greyhound Bus station, Cedar and N. Adams street. City detectives today reported the cash demanded of the clerk on duty, John Laurant, 17, at $713.

Face Covered

According to details given the detective division, the young ticket agent was sitting behind his counter in the empty waiting room when a man stepped from the express room on the north side of the station. His face obscured by a blue handkerchief with white polka dots, he held a revolver in his hand. The robber ordered Laurant to hand over the money, specifying that he wanted only bills.

After the youth handed over the cash, the loot was placed in a brown cloth zipper bag carried by the robber. The man then started to tie up Laurant.

Using twine brought with him, the gunman had tied Laurant's ankles and was starting to bind his wrists when a bus pulled into the station drive. He left via the express room and walked east on Cedar street.

Freed Himself

Laurant freed himself and ran outside and told the incoming bus driver what had occurred. He and the busman, Joseph Bomowski, Milwaukee, gave chase on foot. They last saw the robber in the area between the rear of Cohen's department store and the A and P Supermarket.

Laurant described the hold-up-man as young, but could not estimate any age. The gunman was about 6 feet 2 inches tall, of thin build and dark complexion. He was wearing a dark brown hat and a brown three-quarter length top coat.

FORD

NO WONDER so many people have lost their hearts to this new "fashion first" from Ford. For the new Ford Galaxie models are as much the Thunderbird's double as big six-passenger cars can be. They have the Thunderbird's own distinctive roof and clean, tasteful lines. Then foam rubber cushioned, lavishly carpeted interiors give them Thunderbird luxury. They are even married in power to the fabulous Thunderbird... with the Thunderbird's very own V-8. Yes, when you see how Ford has married the elegance of the world's most sought after car... to the world's most beautifully proportioned cars... you'll see why we call it the most beautiful wedding of the year. And, when you look at low Ford prices, you'll agree it's the most sensible buy.

A Nativity Centerpiece Was Formed from cookie figures mounted on styro-foam bases by Winnebago County Homemakers at the recent holiday fair. "Peace on Earth" was made from the cookie dough with each letter accented by red candies. Different colored frostings were used to decorate each figure with toasted coconut serving as the sand base.

Bake Cookies for Christmas Gifts, Snacks, Centerpieces

Oshkosh — Cookies, packaged in gay wrappings as gifts, tucked into a colorful container for in-between meal snacks or for entertaining, or artistically arranged in centerpieces, are a traditional part of the holiday season.

Cookie figures of wise men, the Holy Family, angels, lambs and camels were placed in styro-foam bases for an upright position to form a nativity centerpiece at the recent homemaker fair. Detailed decorations of each figure resulted in different frosting print blankets for each camel and several colors in the garments of the figures.

Mrs. Gordon Carey of Sun Down Homemaker club has listed the recipe for a Swedish cookie, Fannie's Pepparkakor. Combine in a three quart saucepan one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, cut in small pieces, one-half cup molasses and one-third cup lukewarm water. Stir constantly and then remove from heat, stirring until the butter melts. Cool.

Sift together three cups sifted flour, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger and one-fourth teaspoon cloves. Gradually add the dry ingredients to the cooled sugar mixture, blending well. Beat thoroughly. Cover and chill at least overnight or allow to age up to one week. Place chilled dough, about one-fourth at a time, on a well-floured surface. Knead 10 strokes. Coat dough with flour, then roll out with floured rolling pin to one-sixteenth inch thickness.

Cut into desired shapes with cookie cutters on pastry wheel. Place on lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven at 375 degrees for five to eight minutes. The recipe makes 10 to 12 dozen cookies.

'Split Seconds'

To make "Split Seconds", sift together in mixing bowl, two cups flour, two-thirds cup sugar and one-half teaspoon double-acting baking powder. Blend in three-fourths cup soft butter, one unbeaten egg and two teaspoons vanilla to form a dough.

Place on a lightly floured surface. Divide into four parts, shaping each into a roll, 13 inches long and three-fourths inch thick. Place on ungreased baking sheets, four inches apart and two inches from edge of the sheet. Make a depression, one-fourth to one-third inch deep, lengthwise down center of each roll with a knife handle. Fill the depression with red jelly or jam, about one-third cup in all.

Bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes until light golden brown. While warm, cut diagonally into bars. Cool on a wire rack.

Toffee Cookies

Ingredients for toffee cookies are one cup butter, one cup brown sugar, one egg yolk, one teaspoon vanilla, two cups flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Mix and press into a pan in a thin layer. When cool, cover with one-half pound milk chocolate, which has been melted. Sprinkle with one-half cup nuts.

The recipe of Mrs. Reinhard Nehring, Happy Homemaker club, for butterscotch cookies with burnt butter icing requires one-half cup butter, one and one-half cups brown sugar, two eggs, two and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup sour cream, one teaspoon vanilla and two-thirds cup walnuts.

Cream butter and add sugar gradually, creaming well. Blend in beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Blend in vanilla and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Cool and frost with icing.

Icing

The burnt butter icing ingredients are six tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups powdered sugar, one teaspoon vanilla and hot water.

Melt butter and keep over heat until golden brown. Blend in sugar, add vanilla. Stir in about four tablespoons hot water or until right consistency to spread. The icing recipe makes enough frosting for about 30 cookies.

Sour cream cookies are made with one cup sugar, three cups flour, one cup lard or butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon nutmeg, one-half cup sour cream, one egg and one teaspoon soda.

Mix dry ingredients as for preparing pie crust. Then add well-beaten egg and cream. Let stand at least one hour. Roll thin. Bake at 350 degrees.

U. S. May Soon See Return of New Dealism

Douglas Thinks 'Elite' Might Head Back to Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Back to the New Deal! That's the new slogan. It assumes that the nation has forgotten all about the catastrophe of the 1930s, when spending was unlimited and yet failed after seven years to reduce the unemployment figure below Lawrence 9,000,000 in 1939. This was finally remedied only by the outbreak of the war in Europe.

Unsound economics is being advocated again as the battle impends in the next congress between the spenders and the savers. This is a classification which doesn't follow party lines—there are spenders in the Republican as well as Democratic ranks in the north. The savers get their strength mainly from the south and from some conservative Republicans in the north.

The reminders of the New Deal are becoming more and more evident every day. They are to be found not only in the press releases of some of the spenders in congress but in the legislative program just announced by the Americans for Democratic Action, which pooh-poohs inflationary dangers and promises unbounded prosperity by spending more each year than the government collects in taxes.

Elite Are Elsewhere

The nostalgia isn't confined to congress, either. It seems to have burst forth also from the sacred realm of the supreme court. Just after the November election, Justice William O. Douglas, in a speech at the Columbia university law school in New York City, said:

"There was a time when the intelligentsia flocked to Washington to man the bastions. Those days may come again. At present the bulk of our elite are turning elsewhere for adventure and livelihood. Washington, D. C., and the state capitals get few of the new recruits. This is commonly attributed to the high financial returns in other lines of endeavor. That plays a part, but in my view only a minor one. The real reasons involve intangibles. One is the severe scourge given to the public service in recent years from those who, marching under the banner of Americanism, have hunted down the nonconformist as well as the subversive.

"There are numerous other reasons why the climate in the nation's capital that prevailed for example in the 1930s has never quite been restored. One chief task ahead is to recreate the conditions that make a career with government an exciting life."

One wonders who were the members of the intellectual "elite" that were scared away from Washington in recent years and why. Did they have something in their past associations which they were ashamed to reveal? Why would anyone refrain from coming to work in the government—and get clearance—if he really had nothing to hide? Such a blanket indictment of the intellectual "elite" seems a little severe. For, while there may have been isolated cases of a guilty conscience, it doesn't seem plausible that it took on the proportions of a mass boycott of government service.

Democratic Non-Radicals

Possibly among the real reasons the "elite" have been reluctant to come back is the fact that the Democratic party has had among its leaders such non-radical individuals as Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Harry Byrd and Speaker Sam Rayburn and forthright John McCormack, floor leader of the house.

It could be that the new deal brain trusters of the 1930's have been waiting for a New Dealish president. Some of them tried infiltration in the modern Republican wing of the Eisenhower administration and called for cold and imaginative ideas, only to be frustrated when the president mentioned a balanced budget or creeping socialism or the menace of inflation.

The New Dealers of the 1930's are somewhat older now, though there is no sign they have become too much tainted with conservatism. Their only hope is for a New Deal type of president, and

It will be recalled that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter saying that William O. Douglas, whom he had appointed to the supreme court in 1939, might be a good candidate for vice president. This was just before the Democratic national convention in Chicago in 1944.

Maybe the time has come to promote Justice Douglas to the front line as a presidential candidate. Certainly so far as political philosophy is concerned, he is the clearest exponent of New Dealism in active service today—and he is only 60 and in the prime of intellectual life. Maybe he is the very man to recreate the conditions that made the years of the New Deal an "exciting life" for our intelligentsia. Maybe, if elected, he can man the bastions and coax the missing "elite" to come back to Washington.

Not Wise for Any One of Any Age to Over-Exert Heart

By Carl N. Neupert, M. D.
State Health Officer

During the months to come we can expect—if this is a normal winter—to lose a number of our fellow citizens from heart attacks suffered while shovelling snow.

through knee-deep drifts. No one knows, of course, how many of them are avoidable. Cold weather itself, is held to be hard on people with coronary disease, while strenuous and unaccustomed activity often seems to be a contributing cause in many fatal attacks—even though many others occur during periods of rest or relative inactivity. Actually, over-exertion is not a wise idea for anyone, whether in shovelling snow cars, or even while trudging or any other task, especially during the periods of relative hibernation that mark many of our Wisconsin winters. In fact, the best advice for all of us, even though our hearts are healthy, is to adjust just to our level of activity. ease by maintaining a sufficient to our age and physical status, and to stop and rest when hearts to pump. we know we're tired. And, we'd all be better off, if, rather than take all our exercise, keeping active, but tailoring only after every snowfall, we our activities to our ages.

Grim Struggle for Power Keeps Tensions at High Pitch Level

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Beirut, Lebanon—This sunny city between the mountains and the sea is a pleasant place to catch your breath between grim bouts of political inquiry. But this improved perspective suggests that something needs to be said about the peculiar grammar of Middle Eastern politics. The grammar is so specialized, in fact, that the vast majority of Americans must continuously misread the vital story of this troubled region.

It is perfectly true that the dominant themes are the longing of the Arabs to free themselves of foreign influence and the impulse of the Arabs to join in a broad national union. This longing and this impulse have destroyed almost all of the neo-colonial structure of British power in this area. They have given his great strength to Gamal Abdel Nasser. They have made the Syrian - Egyptian union and they have brought down the monarchy in Iraq.

But the picture of the Arabs as a "nation struggling to be free" is altogether too simple. It does not convey any of the practical and sometimes ugly realities of the process. For the active participants in the struggle are not all the inhabitants, or even a modest majority of the inhabitants of any Arab country. The active participants are only "the army and the street" — a phrase always in the mouths of all practical Arab politicians.

The peasants of the countryside, the people of the villages and small towns and lesser cities even, are relatively passive spectators of the struggle. The desert tribes, too, have ceased to count, except in Jordan and Saudi Arabia, and even in Jordan, the tribesmen only count because they dominate the army. In general, governments are made and unmade, kept in power or destroyed, by an interplay between the soldiers in uniform and the teeming populations of the capital cities — "the street."

Even in the army and in the street, the officers count for almost everything and the troops for almost nothing. The officers cannot run absolute counter to the sentiment of the troops. That was the lesson of the 1957 plot in Jordan, when Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar and his military co-conspirators were defeated by the Bedouin loyalty to King Hussein of the Arab Legion rank and file. But without the officers to give the orders, the troops will not move, even in a direction that commands their enthusiasm.

Nasser Organized Street

It may seem strange to speak of the street having officers and troops, in the manner of an army. Yet it is not inaccurate to do so, since the crowds in the Middle Eastern capital cities must also be organized before they move.

Gamal Abdel Nasser, with his Cairo radio, his new slogans, and his wide net of adherents in all the Arab lands, was the first and most successful organizer of the street. Therein, in fact, lay his first great strength.

But both in Baghdad and in the Nasser's own northern capital of Damascus, the pro-Nasser street organizations are now in open competition with the street organizations of the Communists. In Baghdad, something very like a gang war went on until recently between the faction favoring union now with Egypt and the faction of the Communists who hope to dominate an independent Iraq. In the outcome, the Communist gangsters triumphed, and the Nasser-enthusiasts have given up the struggle for the time being.

Yet this Communist victory in the war for control of the street in Baghdad by no means ensures a final Communist victory in Iraq. For the two rules of Arab politics are, first, that the army and the street cannot be resisted when they are together. But, second, the street is always defeated by the army when the two are in conflict.

Kassem's Opportunity

The second rule explains King Hussein's persistent survival in Jordan, where the street is against the monarchy. The second rule also explains why Brig. Abdel Karim Kassem may yet be master in his own house, instead of being transformed into the Kremlin's new viceroy of the late Nuri Pasha. For Kassem has the army and the police at his disposal, and if he chooses to use these assets, and if he acts in time, the street-victory of the Communists will not keep them in power.

The two rules above-cited also explain why modern Arab political processes are so violent and so devious. Conspiracies among army officers, and the organized movements of inflamed mobs are in fact the two devices by which great new decisions are reached.

But there is only one worse mistake than refusing to face this repellent reality. This is the mistake of forgetting that the pattern of Arab politics is quite largely determined by the prevailing level of life, pulse to be free and united.

But both in Baghdad and in the Nasser's own northern capital of Damascus, the pro-Nasser street organizations are now

Bankhead Play Not Too Good

3 Good Actresses Try Hard to Pull Show From Doldrums

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —(P)— No play with the fascinating Tallulah Bankhead could be an absolute turkey, but "Crazy October," which opened at the Huntington Hartford on Thanksgiving day risks comparison with the bird.

The show encountered trouble on the road and canceled plans for an immediate invasion of Broadway. Judging from the efforts displayed here, that was a wise decision. The show is a formless exercise for a trio of talented actresses, who do what they can to save it. Their efforts are not enough.

Miss Bankhead, eschewing glamor to wear smocks and an angel costume, plays the hardbitten operator of a West Virginia roadhouse. She's a charmer with a heart of lead and tries to impose her will on everyone about her. She succeeds only with her loutish son. Playing with not quite her usual gusto, she nevertheless calls on her radio-TV tricks—the outrageous laughter, the punctured insult—to milk laughs from straight lines.

Joan Blondell, playing one of her familiar parts, has better luck with her role. She rolls her eyes, flounces, bounces and bluffs her way through scenes that might otherwise have been dead.

Estelle Winwood has less to do, but manages to score with her offbeat style.

The backers apparently intend to keep the show on the road until it is in shape for the tour.

Author Has 3 Novels Accepted for Stage

New York —(P)— Mark Harris, college instructor and author of six books, is making an impressive entry on the Broadway theater scene.

Three of his novels are being dramatized for the stage, including one that is being done by Harris himself.

"Something About a Soldier," is under the production wing of Kermit Bloomgarden, and "Bang the Drum Slowly" has been acquired by David Merrick. "Wake Up, Stupid" is being converted from novel to play by Harris, who currently is teaching English at San Francisco State college.

Old Era Gone

Famed Ciro's to Reopen in Hollywood as Private Club

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood —(P)— Herman Hover, a man who looks and can act like a bulldog, says he's going to reopen his famed night club, Ciro's. But the public won't be allowed the privilege of dropping its dol-

Hover says he will turn Ciro's bright lights on again by the end of this month, operating the place as a private club. Among the members: Desi Arnaz, Lucille Ball, Jimmy Durante, C. V. Whitney, Ethel Merman, Bob Six and Max Factor.

This development marks a new phase in Hover's long and hectic career in the night club business, and he's convinced that his move holds portents for the future.

Coming Thing
"I think the private club is the coming thing in the entertainment business," he remarked. "The enemy of the night club is not television or the high cost of entertainers; it's the restaurants."

"People can eat in a restaurant and not pay the entertainment tax, cover charge or minimum. When they eat at a night club, they know they're going to get stabbed for a big bill. But a private club, with a regular income of dues comes in and no federal tax to pay, can afford to operate like a night club without high prices."

Members pay a $36 initiation and $9 quarterly dues. They'll have the privileges of dining and dancing with a select clientele, playing gin rummy, taking steam baths, etc.

So passes another era in Hollywood night life. During the wartime and postwar years, Ciro's and Mocambo would be jumping most nights with the gay blades and babes of moviedom's cafe society.

Then came Hollywood's depression. Business managers refused to let stars drop $200 a night in the hot spots.

The shuttered Mocambo is now opening as a private club, too—for aircraft workers.

get a chance to inspect other of murder," and elsewhere as foreign stage hits. Now that "a marshmallow filled with situation is to be corrected prussic acid," the play was a somewhat with "The Case of the Hit in Madrid in 1950. the Slightly Assassinated. Warner LeRoy has secured the local rights to the script Wife." Described as "a cockeyed by Miguel Mihura and Alvares love story with just a touch of De Laiglesia.

"Know what I'm giving Daddy for Christmas?"

A clay ash tray, shaped by childish hands and a heart full of love? A calendar sticky with glue and March for the first month?

These are truly precious gifts—proudly given, tenderly received. Small tokens of a child's great love.

And a father's love for his child—how is that expressed? By a pile of gifts under the tree, a ride on Daddy's shoulders, a mended airplane.

Perhaps the surest measure of a father's love is something he may never see in use—his life insurance.

Life insurance is the year-round promise of fulfilling the hopes of both parents and child.

Mike Kovac Hero With Emotions

One Gets Humanly
Involved With Him
In 'Camera' Series

BY CHARLES MERCER

New York — (AP) — If you've studied up carefully on the heroes of television action series you must have noticed that they all seem to have Anglo-Saxon names and the inference is that their people have been here since Plymouth Rock.

The only exception I can think of is Mike Kovac, the freelance photographer hero in the weekly series "Man With a Camera" (ABC-TV, Friday nights). Kovac grew up on the Manhattan lower east side and his people came recently from central Europe.

Charles Bronson, a Pennsylvania coal miner's son who looks somewhat like the late John Garfield, plays the role of Kovac. Discussing the generic pasts of TV heroes generally and Kovac especially the other day, Bronson said:

"I don't think the heroes are characterized as they are for any reasons of prejudice against nationalities or groups. After all, this country is a melting pot. Everybody is trying to speak better English. Everybody likes to feel that he and his people are at home here — have been for a long time."

Has Emotions

"But I think that Don Sharpe and Warren Lewis, the executive producers of 'Man With a Camera,' were right in creating a hero named Kovac who grew up on the lower east side and is only a generation removed from central Europe."

"It somehow gives Kovac the capacity for great sensiitivity to the lot of others at the same time that he possesses great physical strength and activity. That, at least, is the way I feel and play Kovac. You get humanly involved with him."

"It's interesting to me that in most of the top-rated action shows you can't get humanly involved with the hero. He has one face for a thousand emotions. In fact, he doesn't have a thousand emotions. He's just there, always dead-pan, and you can't get humanly involved with him."

In these words Bronson expressed, better than I could have myself, a quality I like about "Man With a Camera." Mike Kovac is a credible human being who engages the emotions, and most of the action in those shows of the series I've watched generally springs from character.

Reservists in Surprise Alert

84th Division Units
Mobilize at Appleton
Armory Early Sunday

About 200 members of 84th division army reserve units stationed at the Appleton armory participated in a surprise mobilization alert early Sunday morning.

The alert was part of a state-wide division operation. More than 4,000 men in Wisconsin cities participated.

Commanding officers of the local units are Maj. C. J. West, 808th tank battalion, Maj. William Benoit, 884th field artillery battalion and Capt. Rex Oatland, 84th military police company.

Commanders were called about 6 a. m. Sunday and told to mobilize their men at the armory.

Brig. Gen. Gilbert Embry, the division commander, said the alert was used to test division communications.

Looking Away From the Camera following arraignment for manslaughter in Waupaca is Wayne Tessen, 25, who was charged in the death of his 7-month old daughter. He waived preliminary hearing and is being under $5,000 bond. Sheriff Floyd Taylor, has Tessen in custody.

Waupaca Man Held
For Circuit Trial
On Manslaughter

Waupaca — Wayne Tessen, 25, Waupaca, Saturday waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the circuit court on a charge of manslaughter when he appeared before Justice George Whalen.

He is being held in Waupaca county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Tessen was charged with manslaughter in the death of his 7-month-old daughter, Deborah, who died Thursday. Tessen is alleged to have struck the girl about four hours before she died. County officials said an autopsy showed the girl died of a skull fracture.

Private graveside services were held Sunday afternoon at Lakeside cemetery. Tessen was allowed to attend the rites. The Bammel Funeral home, Waupaca, was in charge.

Natural Gas Firms Win in High Court

Washington — (AP) — The supreme court today decided natural gas pipe line companies may raise their prices without waiting for approval by the federal power commission.

The decision was given on an appeal by the commission and three pipe line companies from a ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals here that gas supplies could not do so unless their customers agreed to the rate increases.

Justice Harlan delivered the 5-3 decision. Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which Chief Justice Warren and Justice Black joined Justice Clark took no part.

Of Great Importance

The high court ruling is of far-reaching importance to the gas industry. The lower court decision in what is known as the Memphis case had depressed the industry's earnings outlook and, industry men contended, threatened to retard needed expansion.

Harlan's majority opinion took recognition of the argument that expansion would be harmed if the lower court ruling was permitted to stand.

"Business reality," Harlan said, "demands that natural gas companies should not be precluded by law from increasing the prices of their product whenever that is the economically necessary means of keeping the intake and outgo of their revenues in proper balance; otherwise procurement of the vast sums necessary for the maintenance and expansion of their systems through equity and debt financing would become most difficult, if not impossible."

Pipe lines which were parties in today's case were the Texas Gas Transmission corporation, Southern Natural Gas company, and United Gas Pipe Line.

On the customer side of the litigation were the Mississippi Valley Gas company, a local gas distributor, the city of Memphis, and the city's light, gas and water division.

Until the lower court decision, it had been the practice by pipe line companies for some years to file new rates with the FCC, then to begin collecting the higher charges six months later. The increases were subject to refund if the commission eventually rejected the new tariffs.

This practice involved service agreement contracts. Under the contracts the parties agree on the type of service with payment to be at the effective rate schedule on file with FPC.

26th Charity Ball Opens Christmas Season

BY SUSAN NOYES
Post-Crescent Society Editor

The Christmas season opened with colorful fanfare and holiday gaiety Saturday night at North Shore Golf club at the 26th annual Charity ball given by Infant Welfare circle of King's Daughters.

Party-goers donned "full dress" attire for the benefit dance, and many feminine guests chose festive gowns of green and red repeating traditional Yuletide colors.

As couples entered the club, they were greeted by Appletonians Mrs. Douglas M. Knight, chairman, and Mrs. Chandler W. Rowe, co-chairman.

Black, White Gowns.
Mrs. Knight appeared in a white gown, with a brocade bodice and floating chiffon skirt. In smart contrast was her companion's dress, Mrs. Rowe choosing a black satin and taffeta formal, ornamented with jeweled straps.

While many ball-goers joined committee members at the 8-30 p. m. dinner in the club dining room, others were entertained at numerous private cocktail parties prior to the 9 p. m. dance.

Late arrivals were welcomed by Mrs. Ralph A. McGowan, Appleton, who handled club arrangements, and Mrs. Douglass L. Mann, route 1, Menasha, who was in charge of tickets.

Sell Carnation Corsages
Mrs. McGowan wore a purple satin and chiffon formal while Mrs. Mann selected a strapless dress in black taffeta; the skirt falling to a small train and

Many Glamorous California Women Turn Storekeeper

BY DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Anyone who thinks businesswomen aren't glamorous ought to inspect the current crop of feminine storekeepers in Palm Springs, Calif.

I recently paused at this gilded desert resort for a weekend en route back to New York after several weeks of California headline hunting and I'm still blinking from the dazzling lineup of local lady merchants.

The night I arrived, Mama Gabor and two of her three famous daughters were holding open house and making merry to celebrate the opening of Mama's new boutique shop, named simply Jolie Gabor. The Viennese Mrs. Gabor has been doing right well selling jewelry in New York for some time now.

Dessert Inn
Then there's Marion Davies, who owns Palm Springs' oldest and most renowned hotel, the Desert Inn—all 30 acres of it—but has announced she is tearing it down next year and turning the land over to the city for a parking lot. The astute Marion plans to keep a front strip of the property and put in one of the most glittering shopping centers in the West—a feat which will make her probably the top lady merchant of the Coast.

Madelyn Flo Rito, the striking brunette who trained the girl and boy guides in the United States pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair, also has a new Palm Springs boutique, where she sells the fashionable goodies she gathers up in her periodic trips abroad.

Dress Shops
Andrea Leeds Howard, former glamor girl of the films, has a dress shop too, as does Mrs. Harry Joe Brown.

Carolyn Jones and Linda Darnell are among seven joint owners of the Whispering Waters hotel, and Claudette Colbert is a stockholder in Bing Crosby's trailer park.

Mrs. Alan Ladd keeps a watchful eye on her husband's Palm Springs hardware store, and Mrs. Bob Hope takes an avid interest in Bob's real estate business.

Lucille Ball appears regularly to check the customers at husband Desi Arnaz's Western Hills hotel, about 12 miles out of Palm Springs, where film luminaries fight for tables.

Marilyn Moehring Displays a landscape oil to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Moehring, Appleton, at the Children's Art Program tea Saturday afternoon at Worcester Art center. The 14-year-old art student was among Appleton young people who showed the results of class work to parents and friends.

Your Problems Keeping Class After School Called Medieval Practice

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Can you bring us parents up to date on a problem?

My child came home from school today half an hour late. I learned the entire 7th grade was kept after school because one student whispered and Ann Landers the teacher could not find out who it was.

This is a medieval practice—punishing the whole group for the wrong doing of one. Such foolishness should have been thrown out of the public school system years ago. Will you print this letter and explain why such nonsense is tolerated in this day and age?

—J.O.N.

I do not agree this practice is "medieval foolishness." There's a very important principle involved.

The student who whispered knew very well he was guilty. Others in the class knew it, too. Those who refused to inform demonstrated strength of character. A room of 7th graders who would remain silent and take punishment rather than inform on a classmate is to be admired.

In most instances the whisperer would have come forth rather than suffer the disapproval of his classmates.

I'm 34 years old but could pass for a lot younger (and do.) At 18 I married a fellow I knew only a few weeks. The war was on and everyone was living from day to day. He was shipped overseas and in two months I got that telegram with the black edge. I'd be lying if I said I felt bad. I hardly knew him. I was his legal widow and got $10,000.

I bought a little restaurant in New Orleans and it went over big. Then I married a man I knew was mixed up with the racket. He died of a heart attack two years ago, and left me plenty.

Now I've fallen in love for the first time in my life. The kid looks like Marlon Brando.

Charles O. Baer Units Set Annual Christmas Party

Donations to the Christmas seal fund and the Community chest were made at the Friday afternoon meeting. The next meeting is a 1:30 p.m. Jan. 3 at the armory.

Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray Farabee, were honored at a reception in the Crystal room of the Conway hotel after their 4 p.m. Saturday wedding at Memorial Presbyterian church. The former Helen Jane Rehbein is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer C. Rehbein, 1330 Oakcrest court. He is the son of Mrs. Jack Wortham Farabee, Wichita Falls, Texas, and the late Mr. Farabee.

Janet Berry Receives CAROL Award From State Jaycettes

Miss Janet Berry, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Berry, 123 N. Green Bay street, was one of five young women receiving CAROL awards Saturday from the Wisconsin Jaycettes.

The CAROL award stands for "citation for achievement and recognition for outstanding leadership." It is given in five categories—outstanding professional woman, young mother, welfare worker, educator and handicapped person who has overcome many obstacles.

Janet, a freshman at Lawrence college, is bedridden with dermatomyositis, a progressive skin and muscle disease. She attends college classes through use of a telephone hookup. She was graduated in June from Appleton High school, being one of the top five members of her class.

Miss Berry's sister, Barbara, accepted the award on her behalf from the Junior Chamber of Commerce auxiliary in a program at Merrill Hills Country club, Waukesha. She was accompanied there by Mrs. Berry.

Janet was nominated for the state award by the Appleton Jaycette chapter and was among five selected from a class of 43. Mrs. Robert A. Knapp and Mrs. John Martin were in charge of the local nominating committee. This was the first time the Appleton chapter submitted candidates for the award.

Local women attending the mid-year convention were the Mmes. Knapp, Fred Freyberg, William Selle, Don C. Smith, 1702 Ravinia place, and Clifford Rondeau.

Ball Festive Event

Decorations for the gala event were designed under the direction of Mrs. William M. McGraw and Mrs. Andrew G. Sharp, both of Appleton.

A free flowing back panel floated over the harem tucked skirt of Mrs. Sharp's gown in Christmas red chifon and taffeta. A narrow green velvet ribbon defined the empire waistline of Mrs. McGraw's trapeze formal in ivory-colored Italian brocade.

Large red and white paper balls were hung in the lounge and ballroom. White Yule trees and wreaths, accented by red flowers and green leaves—entirely fashioned from crepe paper, added a festive note to the clubrooms.

In the ballroom, a whimsical angel gazed down on the dancers. The small figure wore a glittering crown, while rosemailing patterns ornamented wings and wide skirt.

In Good Taste

Child Could Have Waited For Snack

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The other afternoon my young daughter, my sister and I went to visit a friend. My daughter didn't eat very much lunch that day and during our visit she whispered to me that she was hungry. I asked this friend if my daughter might have a glass of milk and some cookies. She gave them to her. When we left my sister said that she thought it was very nervous on my part to ask this of our hostess and that I should have waited until we left to get something for my daughter. Will you please tell me if my request was out of order?

Answer: I agree with your sister unless the friend you were visiting was a really intimate one, and even then it seems to me that having to wait a little for her milk and cookies would have done your daughter no harm and might even lead her on another day to eat her lunch.

Not Best Taste

Dear Mrs. Post: Every Christmas I send out well over a hundred Christmas cards to friends and business acquaintances. I always turn the flap of the envelope in and put half postage on the envelope. I was told that it is in very bad taste not to seal the envelopes and use full postage. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: It is certainly not in best taste not to seal the envelopes. On the other hand, it is tolerated by too many to be criticized generally.

Surge, Drama Make 'Messiah' a Fine, Memorable Performance

By Marguerite Schumann

The civic garlands have been hung, the bell ringers have been shivering in their boxes for a fortnight, and several times lately a vast electronic voice has poured Christmas serenades upon College avenue, reminding all within earshot that the merchandising days are hastening on.

Only one aspect of Appleton's traditional Advent had yet to be fulfilled: the Lawrence Choral Society's performance of Handel's distinguished oratorio "The Messiah." Last evening, that too, was accomplished by LaVahn Maesch, director of the Lawrence conservatory, who was the presiding genius over a chorus of 240, four fine solo singers, and nine nimble instrumentalists.

Maesch is the man responsible for the surge and drama that made last evening's "Messiah" the memorable message that it was. It is evident that he achieved this dramatic styling only after thorough academic analysis of the baroque and its contrapuntal glories.

The chorus is always the star of any "Messiah" in Appleton. Maesch has seen to it that this chorus has been drilled to an immaculate vocal condition, and then has turned it free to exult. It is that youthful exultation (and Maesch's youthful, elastic tempos) that has always set Lawrence "Messiah's" apart from the sick, middle-aged professional sounds on the discs.

More of Original

In recent years, Maesch has been including more and more of the original 252 pages, and has now evolved a "Messiah" that runs 2 1/2 intermission-less hours, although it is still about 40 pages less than Mr. Handel's total thoughts on the subject. That is a good spell of sitting on a plywood chair surely inspired by a Puritan design, but there was an ovation at the end nonetheless.

It has been said that one of the hallmarks of great music is that something new can be discovered in it at each hearing. For this listener, the new discovery of last evening was how very exciting and listenable the bass role can be when it comes from the throat of a distinguished artist.

Richard Schreiber is the Hercules who revealed the glories of his score to these ears which heretofore have listened in glazed disbelief to tangles of 50 notes or more. This man has the authority of a Roman emperor, a resounding ring in his tone production like shock the nations and out-sounded the trumpets in a way that made this old heart glad.

A "Messiah" is always a gala at Lawrence — with a joyful traffic jam at the doors, a couple of little black suitcases marked with radio call letters on the stage, and press photographers exploding lights all over the place. When there are a couple of Lawrentians in the lineup of soloists, as there were last evening, it is a signal for a special sort of gaiety.

It was a "welcome home" for alumna Grace Trester, soprano, and a "look what we've got right here on the campus" for senior tenor Carroll Gonzalo.

Miss Trester did a bang-up job from the same platform two years ago; now with added warmth and ease, she is superb; a sort of angelic voluptuary, if such an anachronism is credible. Miss Trester has sweetness, control, and a stunning bel canto style. In another ten years we will be referring to her as an eminent alum.

Carroll Gonzalo, an engaging youth with an engagingly youthful tenor, could hold his head proudly in the professional company he kept last evening. He was at his best in the persuasive passages when his voice moved with tenderness.

Contralto

Evelyn Reynolds, Chicago, owns a chocolate-brown contralto that was used with artistry and nuance whenever her turn came around in the battling order. Apparently the Windy City abounds in good contraltos at present, for the last couple of imports have indeed been worthy women.

Of the nine instrumentalists that were engaged to support the voices, both massed and solo, the hero's palm must go to Daniel Smith, young faculty organist who played his way through a book that is thicker than a telephone directory. Smith has mighty fingers, a great sense of style, and seems destined for a happy future on the organ bench.

Others who contributed significantly were: Carole Wang Schroeder, harpsichord; Marion Wolfe Ming, violoncello; Kenneth Byler, violin; Patricia Miller, flute; Wayne Wirth and William Melin, trumpets; Ronald Sindelar, contra-bass, and Edward Doemland, percussion.

Russian Author Not at Nobel Prize Fete

Another Blast Fired At Pasternak by Red Writers' Union

Stockholm — (AP) — Winners of 1958 Nobel prizes gathered in Stockholm today with their wives for the awards. The Russians sent the three winners of the physics prize but as promised literary winner Boris Pasternak stayed home.

Another blast was loosed at Pasternak, author of the novel "Dr. Zhivago," by Soviet writers at a Moscow meeting yesterday. Premier Khrushchev and the rest of the communist party's ruling presidium looked on approvingly.

The prizes will be awarded at ceremonies Wednesday.

Pasternak's three countrymen arrived yesterday to share in the physics prize of $41,420. The Soviet scientists are P. A. Cherenkov, I. M. Frank and Igor Tamm.

British Winner

Coming in early today from London were the British winner of the prize in chemistry, Frederick Sanger and Dr. Joshua Lederberg, who shares the medicine and physiology prize with U. S. colleagues, Dr. George Beadle and Dr. Edward L. Tatum.

Beadle arrived yesterday and Tatum was expected later today.

Lederberg is from the University of Wisconsin, Tatum from the Rockefeller institute in New York and Beadle from the California Institute of Technology.

Father Dominique Georges Pire, Belgian priest who won the peace prize, arrived in Oslo, Norway, to receive his prize there Wednesday.

Father Pire stands to make another $4,500 or so for his refugee aid work.

This will be in addition to his $41,227 Nobel prize.

Copies of Book

A Norwegian publishing house donated 300 copies of "The Diary of Anne Frank" to be autographed by the Belgian priest and sold for about $15 a copy. The proceeds will go to Father Pire's refugee work.

Pasternak at first accepted his literature prize, then turned it down under pressure at home. But the committee making the award said he

2 Dutch Women Hitchhike Way Around World, Stopping in U.S.

BY GORDON BEARD

Aberdeen, Md. — (AP) — The raised thumb means "going my way?" no matter where the hitchhiker seeks a lift.

"It's part of the international sign language," says a pair of young Dutch women with more than nine years' experience in hitchhiking rides.

Miss Robby Van Der Wal and Miss Jos De Lange Wendels have visited 57 countries since leaving their native Amsterdam June 9, 1949. They have seen Europe, the Middle East, Africa, South America and have been in the United States about four weeks.

Met in Turkey

In Maryland, they are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Shoup. Mrs. Shoup met them in Turkey. The next stop will be New York City.

The world travelers carry some 66 pounds of luggage, including camping equipment, plus cameras and other small items. Perhaps most important are a pair of guitars they use to earn money for food and transportation — when free rides aren't possible. They sing folk songs, favorites of various countries and original compositions.

Robby and Jos have entertained Dr. Albert Schweitzer in Africa, the French Foreign legion, in the palace of the Sultan of Morocco, aboard Prince Phillip's warship Magpie at Gibraltar, in the house of Tito, and for an Italian baron.

Sometimes it hasn't been as glamorous. They went four days in Spain without food.

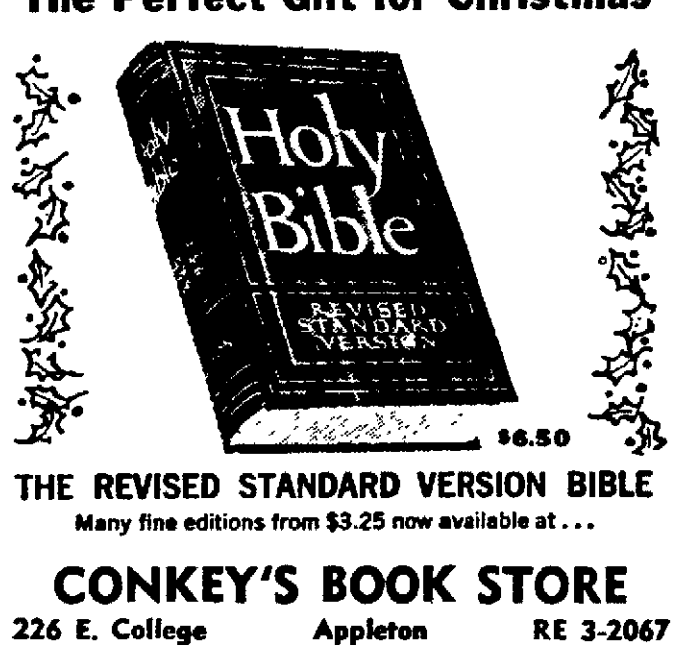

Young People See Changes in Interchurch Work

Interchurch events would be improved by advanced scheduling and clearing of meeting dates, a panel of young people suggested Sunday afternoon. They participated in the discussion sponsored by the Appleton Council of Churches.

Speakers were Joseph Foley, Linda DeNoyer, Jack Krueger, Fay Royan and Patti Wink, all of Appleton High school.

Other recommendations offered for interchurch gatherings were stronger leadership,

Wisconsin Has First Reasonable Inventory of Forest Resources

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — For the first time since the first pioneer cut down the first tree to build his frontier cabin, this state has a reasonably good inventory on its forest resources.

The state conservation department has published, after half a dozen years of time-consuming and costly work with the support of counties and forest using industries, a trail-blazing inventory report on the forest stands in 32 Wisconsin counties representing the primary woodland areas of the state and covering more than 12,000,000 acres of lands classified as commercial forest.

Guide For Industry According to John Beale, state forester, the voluminous statistical bulletin will provide a guide for forest products industries in the state for future production planning and product development, and a key to forest management and reforestation needs for state, county and federal foresters.

The figures are staggering. What they mean to the average man of Wisconsin, however, is that while the state is rich in forest lands and forest production potential, much of the growing timber is of relatively poor grade and not as valuable in the market as the earlier stands that were exploited decades ago.

They also show that there remains a tremendous potential for additional forest planning and the development of new processes and new products from the wood species now regarded commercially as of inferior value.

Saw-Timber

Out of the state's 12,000,000 acres of commercial forest land in 32 primarily forest counties, for example, there is only a little more than 1,000,000 acres classified as saw-timber. It represents about 10 billions of board feet.

But the annual drain through cutting is just about in balance with the allowable cut, as measured by annual growth, the study shows.

About a third of the state's commercial forest acreage is in pole timber — which includes the tree classification used for pulpwood.

About 5,000,000 acres is in the seedling and sapling stage, which means that its production will be exploited in years fairly remote.

About 2,500,000 acres is either poorly stocked or not satisfactorily stocked.

Not For Stocking

Not all of that area is suitable for stocking, because it is hilly, rocky or otherwise too costly to plant. But the survey showed that some 1,150,000 acres can be stocked, by hand or machine.

The fact that the state through public and private effort is planting more forest trees today than ever before in its history, and is covering only about 30,000 acres a year, shows the extent of the forestry job remaining to be done.

Besides the saw timber, the state now has a stand of about 48,000,000 cords of wood, and is producing new growth at a rate of nearly 2,000,000 cords a year.

Annual Harvest

Taking the cordwood situation as a whole, annual harvest is in fair balance with the allowable cut, the study shows, but some species could be harvested more heavily without damage. Other species are being over-cut, as foresters measure allowable drain on the total resource.

Measured in cord volume, the softwoods amount to about a quarter of the volume of growing forest materials in the state today, the inventory showed. Hemlock and white pine lead with about five per cent of total volume apiece.

The cordwood volume of all species was put at about 69-

000,000 cords. A final forest inventory report, covering the other counties in the state where the forest resource is marginaling the year.

or subordinate to agriculture and other economic pursuits in economic significance, is expected to be published during the year.

Business Bad at Matinee, So Star Lillie Serves Tea

London —A Midweek matinee business is so bad in London theaters these days that Bea Lillie has started serving the customers their tea.

British matinee-goers who aren't alcohol minded traditionally keep their seats at intermission and have their tea brought to them. Producer David Pelham asked Miss Lillie, star of "Auntie Mame", if she'd join colleague Florence Desmond in serving the ladies and sprinkling of gentlemen Wednesday.

"I agreed, of course," said the star, whose take rises or falls with the box office receipts.

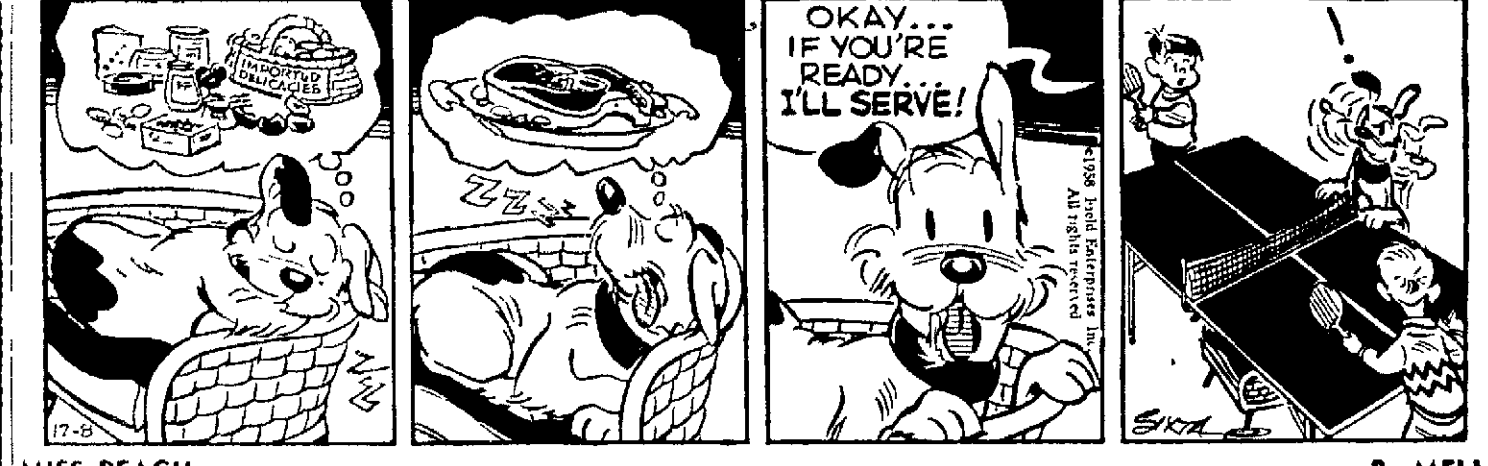

"Auntie Mame" is a sell-out evenings and Saturday matinees, but there have been large, empty spaces on Wednesday afternoons. Miss Lillie's stint with the tea mugs was well advertised in advance and 500 more customers than the week before showed up Wednesday. In a fog, too.

What Young People Think

Most Teenagers Want Clothing, Cash for Christmas, Survey Says

BY EUGENE GILBERT

What do young people really want for Christmas?

"A new boyfriend," replied one girl in a survey we have just completed. "A 1959 Cadillac," was the modest request from one of the lads.

But the biggest group of teenagers in the cross-the-country poll requested clothes or just plain money. Thirty-five per cent suggested clothes and 20 per cent voted for cash.

Only 10 per cent said they like "just-for-fun presents—more than 76 per cent preferred gifts that are useful."

"If people are going to spend money on me, they might as well buy something useful," said practical Robin Brown, a 13-year-old from Long Island.

But most teenagers are not particularly mercenary. Less than one-third said they tried to figure out how much their presents had cost the giver.

And regardless of personal preferences, 84 per cent agreed that clothes are the most useful presents—with a big if . . . if they are attractive.

The biggest single complaint about gifts was on clothes—loud shirts, billious ties, ugly sweaters and zany pajamas and scarfs won a 72 per cent vote on the "Wish I'd never gotten it" list.

Girls muttered about the floods of perfume and costume jewelry that appear under the Christmas tree and boys fumed about cuff links—they'd rather pick their own.

After clothes and money on the most - useful list were books, jewelry, school equipment, cosmetics and stationery.

On the personal preference list, after clothes and cash,

Portage — Assemblyman Warren Grady of Ozaukee county, 34-year-old Portage lawyer, will be chosen as floorleader and principal spokesman for the Republican minority in the state assembly when the legislature convenes Jan. 14.

Republican lower house members who held a caucus here during the weekend to contemplate their new minority status didn't take a vote, but it was clear that Grady will be chosen floorleader again. He occupied the position in the 1957 legislature when the Republicans ruled the lower house.

Most returning members asked about the prospects, guessed that Grady will keep his position. Some said he is likely to be unopposed, although there were reports that Assemblyman J. J. Leonard of Milwaukee has his eyes upon the place.

Grady will also be nominated by the caucus for the assembly speakership, as a matter of form. Democrats will elect the speaker of the house, having 55 assembly votes to 45 for the Republicans.

Adult Students at The Clearing at Ellison Bay spend many pleasant evenings in conversation around the hearth of Miss Mertha Fulkerson's living room. To the Wisconsin Farm bureau must go the credit

Unique School

Dedicated Woman Carries Out Plan Of Famous Architect, Jens Jensen

BY IDA MARGARET BAY
Post-Crescent News Service

Sturgeon Bay — When the late Jens Jensen, internationally known landscape architect, made plans for his school at The Clearing in Ellison Bay, he either had amazing foresight or a stroke of real luck in the selection of a private secretary.

Mertha Fulkerson not only became his loyal disciple, but also his agent. Jensen's dream is becoming reality.

To the Wisconsin Farm bureau must go the credit for sponsoring and financing this extraordinary school where rural and city folk are brought together in surroundings conducive to the exchange of ideas on a highly intellectual plane. The bureau should also be commended for keeping the attendance cost at a minimum.

Meals, lodging and tuition cost less than a week's vacation at an inexpensive resort.

Unusual School

Classes in adult education at The Clearing begin early in May and continue until November. Teachers are selected from large universities, occasionally from abroad. Subjects range from art, drama, music and writing to politics, philosophy, nature study and homemaking. Informal classes occupy most of the morning. Afternoons are usually spent in exploring the countryside of northern Door county with emphasis on points of historic interest.

The Clearing was built for people who want to find their inner resources. Its name does not refer to a clearing in the woods but rather a clearing of the mind, a place to think things out. Jens Jensen thought that it was necessary, occasionally, to withdraw from the world and get back to nature in order to keep growing mentally and spiritually.

Great Teacher

"Mr. Jensen was a great teacher," said Miss Fulkerson. "He had the ability to bring things 'home' when students asked questions he often made believe he didn't hear. But when an opportunity came along to explain the problem he conveniently remembered. Then he would tap the shoulder of the pupil and give him his answer either verbally or visually. He often said that answers aren't much good if they are just a bunch of words."

The old iron bell that once summoned the pioneer children to Ellison Bay's first schoolhouse now brings the Clearing's students to the dining hall three times daily. Well planned menus result in appetizing and nutritious meals served family style in a setting of rustic beauty.

The dining room is a combination of rough plaster and wood paneling with long, beautifully finished harvest tables of native pine and butternut. Matching chairs and benches were made by former students. An unwritten rule, that no pupil should sit at the same place twice, prevails.

Many windows light this friendly room. The handwoven draperies are the product of Miss Fulkerson's loom. No two are alike in color yet the harmonious blending of woodland hues immediately is apparent. One can easily find the dusky red of the staghorn sumac, the restful greens of moss and lichen and the warm yellows and browns of beech and butternut in autumn.

Artistry in weaving can be as subtle as it is on canvas. Miss Fulkerson's life as resident manager of the school has been a series of challenges, some of the most amusing.

Her eyes sparkle as she tells about raccoons squabbling over the garbage, the friendly skunks that sometimes throw the campus into an uproar, and problems that arise in connection with employees.

When the caretaker refuses to do something that Miss Fulkerson feels must be done, she has a way of talking the first person she meets into helping with the job. On such an occasion the head of the art department of a large university spent the afternoon pitching hay and another teacher found herself helping repair the leaky roof of a small cabin.

Villagers Even Help

Amazing too, is the kindness and protectiveness of the villagers when special problems arise. One time a garage mechanic drove miles through deep snow in below-zero weather to find just the right motor for a balky furnace and then worked all night to make the necessary repairs.

"Which of the classes do you like best?" is a question frequently asked of Miss Fulkerson.

"Well, I like them all, of course, but the writers' class is one of my favorites," she says. "I especially enjoy the students at mealtime. Writers are a talkative lot and contact with each other evokes constant surprises. The dining room is filled with refreshing conversation, sharp witticisms, quips and anecdotes. We may cover everything from the ridiculous to the opposite extreme."

"At one supper that I remember well," she recalled, "we discussed the merits and methods of preserving wild fruits, motivational research, the authenticity of the Kensington runestone and an exploratory trip through the sewers of Paris."

"Time passes much too swiftly at these sessions," says Miss Fulkerson. "We learn so much from each other and we enjoy it so thoroughly."

There perhaps is the key to the success of this unique school.

3 Catholic Churches In Adoration Program

Perpetual adoration, the program of daily 24-hour prayer before the Blessed Sacrament, has become an important devotion in three Roman Catholic churches in the Fox Cities. The program is observed at Sacred Heart and St. Joseph, Appleton, and St. Mary, Menasha.

Sacred Heart and St. Mary will mark anniversaries of the program today, the holyday observed by Catholics as the Immaculate Conception.

Sacred Heart began its program Dec. 8, 1951, and was the first church in the Green Bay diocese to institute the devotion. St. Mary will begin its fifth year today. St. Joseph, the second year will be completed in early March.

Catholic churches in Manitowish have incorporated the program.

Set Nation-Wide Campaign

In January, a nation-wide campaign will be conducted by the Claretian Fathers of Dominquez seminary, Compton, Calif. A folder explaining the plan will be mailed to all Catholic pastors in the country.

The 24-hour-a-day adoration has been done in many churches, the folder explains. "There are no definite rules set up by Holy Mother the Church for perpetual adoration; this allows for variations and adaptations to make it possible in almost any parish."

Chicago —(AP)— The fire at Our Lady of the Angels school last week claimed its 92nd victim today.

Kurt Schutt, 9, died in Edgewater hospital where he had been getting special treatment for burns and other injuries.

Eighty-seven children and three nuns died in the fire last Monday. Friday night another of the critically injured died in a hospital.

There still are 37 persons in seven hospitals with burns and injuries as a result of the blaze. Ten of them are on the critical list.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron went about selecting a blue ribbon coroner's jury. The inquest will get underway Wednesday. He promised "everything will be brought out."

He said he hopes to have available the fire and building inspection records of the school.

Among those witnesses already summoned to the inquest, McCarron said, are pupils of the school, the janitor of the brick structure, and members of the police arson squad.

Officers of the arson squad still were questioning some of the 1,200 students who escaped the fire and residents of the northwest side neighborhood to learn the cause of the blaze.

About 300 delegates from all over the African continent assembled for the conference, regarded as the beginning of a joint campaign by nine independent African states to get European powers off their continent and set a pattern for a union of the independent states.

Christmas Tree Is Traditional For Yule Season

Custom Started in Germany Spread by Roving Immigrants

BY JOHN WELLS Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Waupaca—Inspiring, beautiful and traditional is the fragrant Christmas tree which assumes top priority in the home of Americans once each year, just prior to the celebration of Christ's birth.

The practice is said to have its origin in Germany but the date is uncertain. It is certain, however, that in the 16th century Martin Luther added candles to the tree beginning the custom of Christmas lights.

The custom spread into the new world and into England in about 1840 carried by German immigrants.

Candles and homemade decorations still linger, but have been gradually replaced by electric lights and shiny balls and tinsel. Whatever the decorative effects, the traditional Christmas tree serves the purpose of adding a bright, peaceful atmosphere to the Christmas celebration.

The tree found in most areas

Christmas Trees Popped out of vacant lots throughout the Fox Cities over the weekend as families sought to supplement the work of Santa Claus with the traditional Yule decoration. homes are either pine, balsam or spruce. Since most Fox Cities trees are grown in central Wisconsin, the Norway and Scotch pines, the Balsam fir and Norway spruce trees are common.

For ability to keep its needles, the Norway pine with its long dark green foliage and the Scotch pine with its stiff bluish green color are best. Both are long needled trees.

Balsam fir is still a favorite and holds its needles the best of the short needled varieties. The slow growing Black spruce features a full foliage and short needles while the White spruce, although beautiful, drops its needles quickly after cutting. Trees purchased in Wisconsin are usually from the central portion of the state where sandy soil prevails, offering the perfect setting for the widely used pines. Other trees may be imported from Michigan plantations.

Although popular theory has it that Christmas trees are oftentimes waste and cut-aways in the forest, in most cases they are a select tree, cultured and grown specifically for Christmas use.

Trees grown in plantations specifically for Christmas production are started early in the spring and are ready for harvest by some early winter day seven to 10 years from planting time.

Planted in large quantities, many of the trees are weeded out because of poor shape or quality while nature through tree disease and rodents reaps another big share of the tree crop each year.

However, the tree which reaches the home was probably more cared for than its blight stricken brothers. That tree will have been sprayed for various insect blights, withstood the elements, and have been babied along into full beautiful maturity as a Christmas tree.

Careful Clipping

To make the tree popularly full, they are sheared for about two to four years prior to cutting. Following the appearance of new tree growth, determined by the lighter coloration, the added shoot is clipped in the middle, causing other buds to form to make up for the clipped end. This brings additional branches and a fuller more beautiful tree.

Cutting of the Wisconsin tree for the local market usually begins early in November, which assures residents of a fresher tree than those imported from Rocky Mountain plantations.

Once the tree is home and ready for the task of standing up, the trunk should be cut at an angle and kept in water for continued freshness. Chemical preparations are also commercially available which claim to help a tree hold its needles.

New methods of trimming trees tend toward the utmost simplicity. Ideas such as using untouched pine cones, larger ones at the bottom of the tree and smaller cones at the top, make the tree decoration not only novel, but beautiful. A cookie tree, popcorn strung tree, or paper chain laced foliage also add decorative effects at little cost. The popular multi-colored lights may be replaced by lights of a single color, such as blue, or by a lone spotlight shining up through the branches of the tree.

Whatever the decoration, the mainstay, the tree, remains the symbol of Christ's coming. Following the Christ-

Having played commendably — without winning — in three straight season-opening road games, Lawrence college basketball Vikings are preparing to open their home season Friday night against St. Olaf.

The Vikes' latest reversal was a heartbreaking 56-53 setback at the hands of Grinnell college Saturday night. Lawrence sophomore forward Jim Rasmussen hit 23 points in the game, a see-saw struggle. The visiting Vikings were behind by just a point (54-53) and in possession with about a minute left when they lost the ball on a traveling violation in Pioneer territory. Grinnell raced the ball out of bounds quickly and fired a court-length pass to Bill McClintock who counted an insurance basket with most of the Vikes still at the other end of the floor.

2nd Narrow Loss
It was the second game in three road starts that Lawrence has dropped by six points or less.

Grinnell jumped away to a 16-7 early lead. Lawrence went into a zone and tied the score at 16-all. The Vikes were never again out of contention. Grinnell led, 26-26, at the half, but Lawrence was in front 51-50 as late as about 17 minutes into the second half.

Once again guard "Chuck" Knoke was in double figures (with 13 points) while Soph forward Joe Lamers contributed eight. Guard Jim Schulze was held to just four points his first sub-14 point effort.

NU Quint, Notre Dame Play Tonight

Wildcats Topple Maryland, 66-62, For 2nd Straight

Northwestern's undefeated Wildcats, coming off a strong victory over Maryland, invade Notre Dame tonight in one of five non-conference games involving Big Ten basketball teams.

Northwestern made it two straight Saturday when the Wildcats dropped Maryland, the Atlantic Coast conference's defending champion, 66-62. It was an easier victory than the shore indicates since the 'Cats moved to a 13-point lead in the final minutes and then coasted home.

The Northwestern - Notre Dame contest will feature Joe Ruklick, Northwestern's towering hook-shot ace, against Tom Hawkins, one of the finest all-around players in the nation.

Minnesota and Michigan State, both victorious in their openers Saturday, also will be in action. Minnesota, 77-76 victor over Vanderbilt, will be at Iowa State and Michigan State entertains Butler. The Spartans had an easy time in defeating Detroit, 68-51.

Iowa and Wisconsin again will try their luck in the Southwest. Iowa dropped a 65-55 decision to Southern Methodist while Wisconsin was humiliated by Rice, 78-37. Iowa will be at Oklahoma and Wisconsin tackles Southern Methodist.

Big Ten teams split even in competition Saturday. Aside from the games previously mentioned, Purdue defeated Missouri, 65-57; Indiana was beaten by Kansas State, 82-79, in an overtime struggle; Illinois lost to Marquette, 69-53; Michigan dumped Kent, 83-55, and Ohio State dropped a 77-68 decision to St. Louis.

Giants Keep Hopes Alive by Blocking Lion Field Goal Try

By The Associated Press
Coach Paul Brown, master manipulator of the Cleveland Browns, set out today to find the weapon capable of destroying the New York Giants' defensive bastion.

It's the Giants' defensive unit Brown has to beat Sunday in New York's Yankee stadium if Cleveland is to add to its string of Eastern conference titles in the National Football league.

Giants Edge Lions
Cleveland defeated Philadelphia, 21-14, Sunday, clinching at least a tie for the championship, while the runnerup Giants stayed alive with a 19-17 victory at Detroit.

That leaves the Browns (9-2) with a one-game lead over New York. A tie or victory in the regular season finale Sunday gives Cleveland the title. The Giants can only hope for a playoff by winning.

If a playoff is needed it will be staged in New York Dec. 21. The Eastern winner meets the Baltimore Colts, Western conference champions, for the NFL title Dec. 28 in the Eastern entry's park.

In other games, the Chicago Bears beat the Chicago Cardinals, 30-14, San Francisco ripped Green Bay, 48-21, and Pittsburgh came off with a 14-14 tie against Washington. Harland Sware blocked a field goal attempt with 73 seconds to play Sunday and saved the Giants' victory.

Gamble Fails
Early in the final period when the Lions were leading, 17-12, they elected to gamble on fourth down. The run from punt formation fizzled and the Giants, 1956 world champions, moved for a TD and a 19-17 lead.

Despite the backfire, the Lions threatened to knock the

Moore-Durelle Advance Sale Near $80,000

Montreal — The Archie Moore - Yvon Durelle fight Wednesday night for the world light - heavyweight championship may draw more money than Canadians ever have paid to see a boxing match.

Promoter Eddie Quinn says the advance sale has nearly reached the $80,000 mark, all ready more than the record Montreal gate of $76,000 drawn by middleweight Laurent Dauthuille and Johnny Greco in 1949.

Quinn figures the total will pass the Canadian record of $120,000 grossed in Toronto for the Moore-James J. Parker fight two years ago.

Nationals Grab Pair From 'Cats, 7-2, 11-7

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The touring United States Nationals are sleek, tireless and persistent — all they were supposed to be — the Green Bay Bobcats were ready to concede today after spending a hectic weekend on Arena ice with Uncle Sam's finest.

Condition and cohesion made the basic difference as the eager young Nationals, superbly conditioned and silky smooth after a month of 2-a-day drills, simply out-skated the combative Bobcats, who gave it the proverbial old college try with the aid of reinforcements but couldn't turn the victory trick in a pair of attempts.

With an estimated 3,000 customers looking on, the Yanks maneuvered to a 7-2 victory in Saturday night's series opener and came back Sunday afternoon to annex a harder-earned 11-7 decision before 1,800 more patrons.

Sunday's getaway triumph was the third straight for Coach Marsh Ryman's undefeated invaders, who launched a 55-game tour with a 3-2 overtime conquest of the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis Friday night.

The Nationals' passing was, for the most part, sharp; the stick handling got deft and sure and the shooting spectacular, as Green Bay goalies Gene Dottie and Tom Tochterman will attest after watching 18 assorted pucks rocket into the Bobcat nets during the two performances.

Sturdy and vigorous back-checkers, the Nationals were also formidable defensively with 2 - time All - American Jack Mc Cartan in the goal as he was Saturday night, and such as big Robert McVey, late of Harvard, and Minnesota John Newkirk manning the defense posts.

Beefed Up
Beefed up for the occasion by the addition of the gifted loose receiver (Steve Meilin-Johnny Mayasich, himself a ger) when the intended catcher was covered in the fourth quarter.

Bart Starr started the show and his first two passes (in the third period of Sunday's three plays) were intercepted. "Babe" Parrilli, with a 13-seven goals-enough to win 0 deficit, threw an interception to an end, Bob Toneff, on a screener and the 49ers turned that into a 20-0 lead.

San Francisco — The Packers played a disgraceful first quarter and the 49ers took advantage of the foolishness to grab a 27 to 0 lead and then coast into a 48-21 triumph before a delirious crowd of 50,792 in Kezar stadium Sunday afternoon.

The Packers were ridiculously generous, pitching interceptions on each of their first three passes and then tumbling. The 49ers turned the four mistakes into four touchdowns.

The two teams played a 21 to 21 tie after the first quarter with the 49ers leading at the half 34-7 and at the three quarter mark 48-7 before the Bays "broke loose" for two consolation TDs.

Rams Next

And now the Rams in Los Angeles next Sunday in the National league windup for both teams. Sunday's grief left the Packers with a 1-9-1 record and darned little hope for a surprise Sunday.

The Packers didn't survive the game without something on the "good" side. They displayed a bench-warmer by the name of Jim Taylor who started at halfback and rolled up 137 yards in 22 carries. That's the biggest single-game rushing total for a Packer in years.

Taylor, a freshman out of LSU, hadn't been used much because the Packers' offensive signals posed quite a problem for him. But he was hitting the right spots Sunday and the 205-pounder was a demon—especially up the middle.

Could Be Answer

Taylor could be the answer to the Packers' need for a successful running back. The speed merchant with power gained all but 27 of the Packers' 163 yards rushing.

One other Packer rookie had a few moments — Joe Francis, the quarterback, who pitched a touchdown pass among his four completions, in six attempts. Best of all, Joe hurled the scorer to a loose receiver (Steve Meilin-Johnny Mayasich, himself a ger) when the intended catcher was covered in the fourth quarter.

Bart Starr started the show and his first two passes (in the third period of Sunday's three plays) were intercepted. "Babe" Parrilli, with a 13-seven goals-enough to win 0 deficit, threw an interception to an end, Bob Toneff, on a screener and the 49ers turned that into a 20-0 lead.

TCU Stresses Pass Defense In Workouts

Coch Abe Martin Fears Offense of Air Force '11'

Fort Worth, Texas.—(AP)—Texas Christian's Horned Frogs return to the practice field today to start getting ready for Air Force academy in the Cotton bowl. Coach Abe Martin said pass defense would be the No. 1 item of the training grind.

"My scout, Fred Taylor says those guys really throw that ball, that it's the hardest hitting team he's seen all year, that Steve Gallios is the best fullback he's come across and that this fellow Rich Mayo sure can pass that ball and so can John Kuenzel," said Martin a little breathlessly.

But Martin said he still hadn't enumerated all the good points of the Falcons. "They use flankers, double-wing T, split ends, slot backs and just about everything that goes with a fine offense," Martin added. "We're going to have a lot of trouble with that crowd."

A squad of 68 will greet Martin as he opens 1-a-day practice for the coming 12 days. Everybody is in top shape—"not even a bruise."

Air Force threw for 1,388 yards in its 10-game schedule, trying 242 and completing 136, with Mayo pitching 174 of them and connecting on 98 for 1,019 yards. "That's passing like we haven't been seeing around here lately," commented Martin.

E. C. Quigley, Former NL Umpire Supervisor, Is in 'Poor' Condition

Lawrence, Kan. —(AP)—E. C. Quigley, 77, former supervisor of National league umpires, was reported in poor condition today at Lawrence Memorial hospital.

He entered the hospital Saturday. Quigley underwent surgery in September at the University of Kansas Medical center and was released Oct. 2. The nature of his illness has not been revealed.

Quigley was a National league umpire 23 years until he became supervisor in 1936. He was athletic director at the University of Kansas from 1944 to 1950.

Detroit Halfback Gene Gedman does an awkward fling as he is tackled behind his own goal line in the first quarter of Sunday's game with New York. Giants tackle Jim Katcavage (75) makes the tackle. It was a safety for the Giants and turned out to be the winning margin in a 19-17 victory.

Minoqua Assemblyman Draws Up Plan for Abolishing Present CC

Madison — A veteran northern Wisconsin politician will "jump the gun" on Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson's plan to repeal and recreate the Wisconsin Conservation commission.

Paul R. Alfonsi of Minoqua, newly elected Republican assemblyman from Oneida, Iron and Vilas counties, says he has drawn a plan to abolish the present 6-member conservation commission which has been responsible for conservation department policy for 31 years, and replace it with a full time, well-paid 3-member commission.

Alfonsi says he is convinced that public opinion demands a new system of administration of the conservation department which has grown rapidly during the last decade. Part-time and unpaid commissioners cannot adequately manage department policy today, he said.

Recalls Complaints

His statement recalled similar complaints made during his successful campaign for the governorship by State Senator Nelson. The governor-elect, however, has said that he has not yet settled on an alternative form for the organization of the conservation department.

Alfonsi said he is getting substantial support for his plan from other northern Wisconsin legislators representing districts where there is a deep interest in conservation department affairs. He said no issue was so important in his own election as his criticism of the inadequate administrative arrangements for the conservation program.

(Alfonsi, a Progressive party leader of 20 years ago and speaker of the assembly in 1957, made a political comeback this year when he won in the primary over Marvin Dillman of Lac du Flambeau.)

Dillman is widely known in conservation circles as chairman of the assembly conservation committee in the 1957 legislature and a defender of the conservation department and its programs on the assembly floor.)

Illinois Center Vern Altemeyer (52) attempts a shot in the first half of Saturday night's game against Marquette in Milwaukee but is fouled by Walt Mangham (11). Also going up on the play is MU's Jim McCoy (15). Marquette won, 69-53.

Wings Remain Strong NHL Challenger

By the Associated Press

The pace-setting Montreal Canadiens clinched a 6-game unbeaten string today in the National Hockey league but still saw the pesky Detroit Red Wings as a strong challenger.

Ironically, the Wings haven't beaten the high-flying Canadiens all season, but their consistent success against other NHL clubs left Detroit only four points from the top rung.

Detroit won one and tied one against the Chicago Blackhawks over the weekend, marking up a 4-3 victory Saturday and pulling out a 2-2 tie in the last 10 seconds Sunday night.

Montreal blanked the New York Rangers, 6-0, Saturday and whipped Boston, 4-1, Sunday. Toronto gave the Bruins a 4-1 licking Saturday and followed with a 2-0 victory over New York Sunday night.

In the Detroit game, Glenn Hall, the Chicago netminder, stopped 38 shots by his former mates. He was defending against six men, after Detroit Coach Sid Abel had yanked goalie Terry Sawchuk, when Alex Delvecchio slammed in the tying goal.

Kansas City — Willie Morton, 140, San Jose, Calif., outpointed Arthur Persley, 135, Red Cross, La., 10.

Hibbing's Kleffman Wins Midwest 'Spiel'

Waupaca — The Fran Kleffman rink of Hibbing, Minn., won the fourteenth annual Midwest Curling association's bonspiel Sunday at Waupaca.

Kleffman and crew won by defeating another Hibbing rink, Harold Lauber, in the finals. On the way to the title, Kleffman defeated Woodside of Stevens Point, Carlson of Madison, Hill of Evelyn and Heuer of Clintonville.

Kleffman won the All-American trophy taken by the Lee Duncan rink of Wausau last year. Kleffman's rink also included Dick Brown, Bud Akin and Fred Berarducci.

Other class titles were won by the Woody Hodge rink of Medford, second event; the William Hill rink of Eveleth, Minn., third event, and the Rudge Goodland rink of Portage, fourth event.

In competition for the second event, Twentieth Century Press trophy, the Hodge rink defeated Dan Steinberg rink of Appleton.

The third (McGrath) plaque winners, the Hill rink of Eveleth, took its final win over the Wayne Meyers rink of Wausau.

In the fourth (Heil) event, Rudge Goodland won over the Walter Rhodes rink from Madison.

Runners in each event were awarded pins while all winners and seconds received a gift package of cheese.

Waupaca's "Darkey" Barrington rink got as far as the semi-finals of the second event before losing to the

Wisconsin Plays SMU '5' Tonight

Collapses in 2nd Half, Takes 78-37 Walloping From Rice

Dallas —(AP)— The Wisconsin basketball team collides with Southern Methodist tonight after looking colder than the weather back home in Saturday night's 78-37 loss at Rice. SMU, having won the Southwest conference championship in three of the past four years and disposing of Iowa, 65-55, Saturday, is favored to hand the Badgers their third straight loss of the campaign and their eleventh in a row over two seasons.

3 Field Goals
After looking respectable in trailing 31-25 at the half against Rice, the Badgers collapsed completely — showing the same second half weakness they displayed in losing their opener to Marquette. Wisconsin could score only three field goals during the entire second half at Rice and at one stretch were outscored 21-1.

The opening stages were fairly tight as the score was tied three times and for a few fleeting moments Wisconsin held the lead at 13-12 before Rice pulled away.

Tom Robitaille scored 34 points for Rice, only three points under the entire Wisconsin output, as the Badgers rebounded poorly and couldn't tell while the roof was falling in.

Coach "Bud" Foster used all 12 Wisconsin players but only five could score. Brian Kulas led the losers with 14 points.

Rice also used 12 players, and all but one scored.

Richardson Leaves Early for Site of Interzone Matches

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

Melbourne, Australia —(AP)— Ham Richardson, regarded as the mainstay of the U. S. Davis cup team although he never has won a match in the Challenge round, left his teammates behind today and headed for Perth to get ready for the interzone final against Italy.

Richardson, as was to be expected, was the first named by Captain Perry Jones listed the 4-man team to face the Italians at Perth Dec. 19-21. This is Richardson's fourth cup trip to Australia, and although he has played only in the interzone matches here, he is by far the most experienced by the Americans.

Accompanied by Pails

The others named were Barry MacKay, Dayton, Ohio; Peruvian Alex Olmedo, Los Angeles; and youthful Earl Buchholz, St. Louis. Chris Crawford, 19, Piedmont, Calif., is the other member of the U. S. squad.

Jones immediately dispatched Richardson to Perth, in dry, hot western Australia, to get adjusted to the conditions there. He was accompanied by Dinny Pails, the Australian pro who has been a longtime coach of the American squad.

Jones emphasized that his choice of players for the singles and doubles matches against Italy will be decided by head-to-head competition when the entire squad reaches western Australia.

It seems quite certain, however, that Jones will rely on the two most experienced players, Richardson and MacKay, for singles against the Italian team, which crushed the Philippines at Sydney this weekend. Olmedo and Richardson are a likely doubles combination.

Oshkosh State '5' Trims Winona For First Win

By The Associated Press

Wisconsin State College conference teams won four of six basketball games with non-league opponents Saturday night.

Oshkosh beat Winona, 89-66, for its first victory in three starts, Superior edged Moorhead, 90 - 88; Stevens Point rolled over Lakeland, 88-32; and La Crosse trounced Beloit, 67-54.

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee bowed to Eastern Illinois, 106-83, and Platteville lost to Illinois Normal, 75-61.

Oshkosh took the lead late in the first half, which ended, 44-33, and added to it steadily. Mike Grabner paced the Titans with 20 points while John Kaiser and Don Klagge netted 16 apiece for Winona.

Stevens Point's victory was its third in four starts. Jim Marko had 21 points for the Pointers.

San Francisco —(AP)— Bobby Scanlon, a 22-year-old boxing stylist, seeks revenge tonight against 30-year-old veteran Paoli Rosi in the Cow Palace.

Players Should Share In Owners' Good Fortune, End Declares

San Francisco —(AP)— Billy Howton, an end for the Green Bay Packers and president of the National Football League Players association, said Sunday professional football players will have a pension plan within a year.

"All the clubs are in good shape financially," Howton said. "In fact, this will be a record season for everybody. The players should share in this good fortune."

Howton said the time is ripe for adoption of the plan and creation of a pension fund. He said the players were in a position to cause real trouble if any reactionary group wants to kill or delay the football pension.

Howton indicated the players would resort to the courts under anti-trust laws rather than take any strike action against the clubs. He said the pension program has been worked out by Bill Dudley, a former NFL player and now an insurance executive.

Howton said the players hope to talk over the pension plan with Commissioner Bert Bell and club owners at a meeting before the championship game or at the league's regular February meeting.

Brown Fails to Tie Van Buren's Touchdown Mark

Philadelphia —(AP)— Cleveland's Jim Brown already has broken Steve Van Buren's National Football league season rushing record.

And, the former Philadelphia Eagle doesn't mind if Brown topples his season touchdown mark. Prior to Sunday's Eagle-Browns game, Brown so told Brown—figuring the Eagles would get at least four touchdowns.

Brown got 138 yards rushing as the Browns won, 21-14. He now has 1,379 against Van Buren's 1949 record of 1,146. But Brown didn't get the score he needed to tie Van Buren's record of 18 TDs.

"He said he hoped I'd get two touchdowns and beat the record," Brown said, reporting his conversation with Van Buren.

With a grin, Brown continued: "Then Steve added he was figuring the Eagles would get at least four touchdowns."

Kentucky Five Has Rugged Week Ahead

Trims Temple for 2nd Straight Win;
SMU Beats Iowa

By The Associated Press
Kentucky may not have nearly as good a basketball team as when it won the NCAA championship last spring. Four of the five starting players are gone.

But if Coach Adolph Rupp is short of talent, you can bet he aims to find out soon.

He is used to being surrounded by better-than-average basketball players. Left this season with only talented Johnny Cox from the team that gained a surprise victory in the NCAA tournament last March, he has put together a squad that has won its first two games.

Kentucky thumped Florida State, 91-68, in its opener and then outscored Temple, one of last season's toughest rivals, 76-61, in the Philadelphia Pal-estra Saturday.

Meet Duke Next
This week the Wildcats take on a good Duke team at Durham, N. C., tonight, then return home for games against Southern Methodist Thursday and St. Louis Saturday. SMU clouted Iowa, 65-55, last Saturday and St. Louis made extra Saturday.

Kansas State, 82-79, overtime winner over Indiana, heads a 3-pronged Big Eight invasion of the Pacific coast. Tennessee, a tournament winner already, faces a rugged Wake Forest team that carried N. C. State to two overtime games before losing, 56-52.

Grinnell had 15 more rebounds than Lawrence's 37. The Vikes had just seven on the offensive board.

The winners hit on 24 of 77 shots for 31 per cent, Lawrence made 22 of 60 for 37 per cent.

The Lawrence zone defense cut down on the Vikes' fouling and for the first time they had no one foul out. Lawrence missed just three of 12 free throw attempts, Grinnell was off on nine of 17.

Madison's Rasnussen was deadly from the free throw circle-area with jump shots and drive-ins. He made 11 of 19 tries from the floor for 58 per cent. Knacke counted on five of 18 fielders.

New York Giants Linebacker Harland Sware (84) reaches to block a field goal attempt by Jim Martin of the Detroit Lions with just 1:13 left in the game to preserve a 19-17 New York win Sunday. The victory kept the Giants in contention for the National Football league's Eastern division title.

49ers Score 48-21 Win Over Packers

A few moments later Parilli fumbled and the 49ers recovered and scored for 27-0.

San Francisco, with Y. A. Tittle going the first quarter, scored the first three of their seven TDs in 5 minutes and 50 seconds. Tittle hurried only seven times but completed five and three of those went for touchdowns. John Brodie worked the last three quarters with sort of a second team offense and completed 16 out of 23 passes for 162 yards.

Green Bay's other two touchdowns came on passes. Parilli throwing 32 yards to Joe Johnson for six points just before the half and seven yards to Bill Howton who made a tough catch for a touchdown in the third period.

While 49er passers were hot and the Albertmen were rolling up 468 yards, including 258 passing, the Packers were hurting on defense without Hank Gremminger at left corner backer. Billy Kinard wasn't doing the job and Bobby Dillon later moved up from safety to the key position. On top of that the Packers couldn't or wouldn't rush 49er passers.

5 Fewer Plays
The Packers, despite the final score, finished with 61 plays, the 49ers 66. And how about this: in the first quarter the Packers had 20 plays; the 49ers 14—yet the score was 27-0.

Starr's first pass was down the middle toward Howton. It was short and Jim Ridlon intercepted on the Packer 48. Three plays later Tittle faked a short shot to Billy Wilson and Kinard came in. Tittle backed up and heaved a 44-yard touchdown strike to Wilson who had hooked into the clear. Gordy Soltau made it 7-0 at 1:55.

After Taylor ran four, Starr fired a shortie to Max McGee but Bill Atkins made a terrific interception and returned 10 yards to the Packer 36. The 49ers ran for this one—old Joe Perry (7), McElhenry (22 and 5) and Perry (2) for the touchdown. Tom Bellis and Dave Hanner blocked Soltau's kick and it was 13-0 at 4:35.

Parilli came forth next. After a Taylor run, Parilli pulled a screen pass about four feet over Paul Hornung's head and lumbering Bob Tomoff intercepted and ran to the Packer 10. On the first place Tittle pitched to Clyde Connor for the TD and Soltau started a string of five conversions for 20-0 at 5:50.

Quick First Downs
Parilli produced three quick first downs on three passes to McGee, Howton and Johnson—plus some runs by Taylor. To the 49ers 29, which was a real treat, but on a third and Chicago—A 200-average bowler couldn't even make the semi-finals as the World's Invitational tournament moved into the final day of qualifying for match play finals in the Chicago coliseum.

Eddie Lubanski, 28, Detroit, won qualifying laurels as he finished with a total of 5,161 for 24 games. This gave him a 19-pin bulge on defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis who is automatically seeded into the finals.

Dick Hoover of Akron, Ohio, the former all-star and 2-time Masters champion, finished with 5,130 for third place.

The women's division was paced by defending champion Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., who had a total of 3,439 pins. Mrs. Ladewig, like Carter, is exempt from qualifying.

Mrs. Ladewig's was five pins ahead of the 3,434 shot by Jere Price of Fort Worth, Tex., in the 16-game qualifying trials.

The third woman was national all-star champion Merle Matthews of Long Beach, Calif., with 3,230.

Ripon Suffers 2nd Straight Defeat

By The Associated Press
Wisconsin members were without a victory in two starts each as the Midwest conference basketball campaign ended its first week.

Saturday Ripon fell before Coe, 79-63, and Lawrence was edged by Grinnell, 56-53. In other Saturday games, Carleton took Monmouth, 83-56, and Knox downed St. Olaf, 76-67.

Ron Waackler tossed in 29 points for Coe, which held a 38-27 advantage at the intermission. Pete Kasson was high for Ripon with 20 points.

'Sea Lamprey War' Being Won With Aid of Chemicals

Ann Arbor, Mich. —The Great Lakes is winning its chemical war against sea lamprey with negligible casualties among fish.

The battle communique was reported at the annual meeting of the Great Lakes Fishery commission at the University of Michigan.

Highly favorable results were reported from recent tests in eight Michigan and Wisconsin streams where the lamprey feeds off fish.

Two Chemicals
The lamprey is being killed by two chemicals: Dowlap F-40 and Lampicide 2770.

They were administered in the streams by personnel from the United States Fish and Wildlife Station at Marquette, Mich. Officials reported the effectiveness of the chemical ranged from 34-88 per cent in various streams.

The same officials said few game and other fish were harmed by the chemicals.

The death toll of lampreys was estimated at hundreds of thousands. Authorities said 17,135 dead lampreys were found since the September and October tests.

Fish and Wildlife researchers also disclosed an electrical weapon for use against the lamprey. It's a direct current barrier designed to prevent lamprey from traveling upstream to their spawning grounds. The new weapon has been installed in several Michigan streams, researchers said.

son said he ordered the fourth-down gamble that boomeranged.

The Lions needed 25 yards for a first down, and had possession on their own 43. Yale Lary took the snap in punt formation, but tried to circle end. He was driven out of bounds after a 2-yard pickup.

Five plays later, after Charlie Conerly passed 35 yards to Bob Schnelker, the Giants scored.

"I called the play," said Wilson. "I saw the Giants were open. This same play has worked three times for us in the past. Either it works or it doesn't. So I'm a bum."

Quarterback Milt Plum was the big man for the Browns, scoring twice and then throwing a 48-yard strike to Ray Renfro for the TD that broke a 14-14 tie in the third period.

While the Eagles were unable to mount any sort of running attack, Jimmy Brown padded his league-leading rushing yardage total with 138 yards in 21 carries for Cleveland.

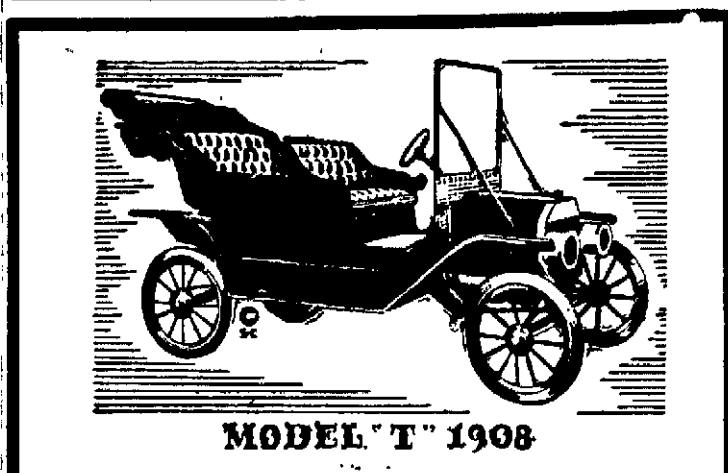

Norm Van Brocklin was the Eagles' only threat. He completed 15 of 27 passes for 154 yards and one touchdown.

The Colts dropped a 30-28 decision at Los Angeles Saturday, although Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas pitched three touchdown passes to set an AFL record. It was the twenty-fourth consecutive game in which Unitas had passed for a TD, breaking the mark set by Green Bay's Cecil Isbell in 1942 with 23.

Expensive Schools Don't Solve America's Educational Needs

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York — The American people can have as competent or as incompetent a school system as they pay for. They can have a cheap school system or a correctly priced school system.

In this cost, I do not figure fancy buildings, with Grecian urns that collect rubbish and landscaping that serves no purpose. A school building can look like person that what they are?

A factory, but if the quality of the teaching is high, the marking tough, the students disciplined and the teachers sufficiently paid the children will be benefited. Teachers must be employed full time and should be accountable to the school system for their time on an annual basis. That may include periods of additional study.

And how can you honestly figure a teacher on a 52-week year basis when they actually work on the average of 40 weeks a year?

Value of Money
The receipt of more money does not improve the person, but it might attract more competent men and women to the job.

Meyer's contention that a teacher is a part-time worker, getting paid for 52 weeks and working only 40 weeks is, of course, nonsense.

To be of value, a teacher must have time to read and study. In those schools, where the merit system prevails, teachers who have an M. A. are paid more than those who have a B. A. The same is true of a Ph. D. In a word, the teachers who devote themselves to systematic study in a university benefit by it. Those who attend summer sessions at universities will find that a very large part of the student body are teachers who give of their time to improve themselves and therefore to be more useful to their pupils.

Teachers in elementary grades should, and many do, take trips about the United States or Europe, which while it is pleasant work, is also of tremendous advantage to the pupils, who learn from their teachers what the world is like. The teacher needs to be broad-minded and the child must feel that the teacher is an experienced and broad-minded person.

Money will not solve all problems. The standards for

Forester Rangers to Meet Tuesday Evening
Little Chute — Members of the Juvenile Forester Rangers will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Forester hall.

Boys between the ages of seven and 15½ years who are Forester members are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served and games played. Robert Hietpas, juvenile director, will be in charge.

employing teachers ought to be raised. Tenure should not protect the decreasingly competent. Teachers who have unfortunately suffered from breakdowns or other psychiatric difficulties should be eliminated from the school system in the interest of the child. But there can be no reason for a teacher earning less than a stenographer or than a model for a dressmaker.
